Power Strike Being Started In Michigan

Report Power Shut Off At Bay City, With 50,000 Population

OTHER CITIES MAY ALSO BE AFFECTED

Saginaw Industrial Valley In Michigan Scene Of Latest Strike Move

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

SAGINAW, Mich., May 19.—A power strike which ultimately may affect more than 180 cities and towns and a half million people in the rich Saginaw valley industrial district started today.

It was called by a United Automobile Workers union local in the "key" plant of the Consumers Power company here.

First effects of the strike were felt at Bay City, a city of 50,000, when electric power in lines leading into industrial plants failed.

1,500 Involved

Union men, it was reported, were first cutting off power from substations before shutting down switches in the key plant here.

Thus, it may be hours before the full effects of the strike become known.

One of the first businesses to be effected in Bay City was a newspaper. The presses there stopped running.

Involved in the strike are 1,500 workers of the Consumers Power company. Unionists claimed the company had refused to meet their demands for a minimum wage of $160 a month. Negotiations over the wage dispute had been in progress for three weeks and had virtually collapsed.

The union then set the deadline for noon today. Shortly afterwards the Bay City power failed.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Three local men are beginning to wonder why hunters go to the big woods in quest of deer every year. Tusday evening shortly before dusk, T. A. Scott, C. T. Parfitt and C. W. Beerbower motored to the Beerbower property on the Wilmington road, to inspect a new home being built by Mr. Beerbower. While there the men were stopped dead in their tracks with an unusual sight. Emerging from a little wooded section on the Gravenstreator property, about seven miles from the city, was a beautiful full-grown doe. The animal came bounding from the trees, over a fence and stopped in its tracks about 150 feet from the road. Here the animal eyed its surroundings, took a look at the men and then disappeared in the direction of Johnson's apple orchard.

According to a date inscribed in the school building at the corner of North and East streets, the building is fifty years old this year. Pa Newc is informed that this building at one time served as a high school for the city, prior to erection of the Senior high on Lincoln avenue.

Workmen were today filling many holes in West Washington street hill, between Greenwood avenue and the West Side school. This stretch of the street is brick, it not being resurfaced sometime ago when the remainder of the street was paved, and many holes are formed as the bricks sink from the heavy traffic.

President's Supreme Court Proposal Appears Headed For Legislative Sidetrack

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Roosevelt's supreme court bill appeared headed for a legislative sidetrack in the senate today as administration leaders rallied around a compromise after the senate judiciary committee rejected the original presidential plan.

The compromise, sponsored by Senator Logan (D) of Kentucky, with the approval of Senate leaders, would limit the supreme court permanently to nine justices but authorize appointment of one new additional justice each year for every sitting justice over 75 years of age. The presidential plan allowed such appointments for justices over 70 years and permitted a permanent increase of the court to 15 justices.

Revolt Among Democrats

There were two views of the strategy behind this compromise move. One report indicated it was a direct revolt among leading Democrats against the presidential plan, with a view to securing an agreement on a compromise before the Democratic party is hopelessly split on the court issue. It gained momentum on the strength of warnings that a finish fight on the presidential plan would result just as disastrously to the Democratic party as did the bitter League of Nations fight two decades ago.

The other report indicated the President was involved indirectly in the compromise. It was declared the President had been broached on a compromise, declined to commit himself to any particular plan, but offered no opposition to his leaders negotiating some agreement

State May Take Over 25 Miles Of County Road

Road Bill Provides For Acquiring More Lawrence County Roads

MEASURE REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Commonwealth acquisition of 2397 more miles of township roads, giving the state highway system a total of 40,000 miles, was provided today in the administration omnibus bill reported from the House Highways committee.

The bill authorizes the state to take over five per cent of all township roads in each county. At the same time the administration bill providing for state maintenance of township roads for the coming biennium, has been amended to cut the appropriation five per cent, or from $9,000,000 to $8,500,000.

"While the contemplated step was not initiated by this department," said Secretary of Highways Warren Van Dyke, of the ominbus bill, "it will furnish opportunity to make extensions to, and connections between, many existing state highways. The result will be a closer co-ordination of our whole system."

The 2397 miles to be taken over is divided among the counties in part, as follows:

Allegheny, 48.98; Beaver, 29; Bedford, 44.27; Blair, 15.17; Bradford, 72.46; Cambria, 29.04; Centre, 24; Clearfield, 46.62; Elk, 15.09; Erie, 46.83; Fayette, 52.06; Greene, 43.04; Lawrence, 24.52; McKean, 18.53; Mifflin 13.49; Venango, 34.93; Washington, 59.45, and Westmoreland, 67.79.

Prison Strike Quickly Ends

Allegheny County Prisoners Stage One-Day Sit-Down Strike

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—Hunger today broke the one day strike of 680 prisoners in the 40 cell ranges of the Allegheny county jail.

Warden John McNeil disclosed "everything is as usual and the prisoners came to breakfast this morning."

The strike began yesterday with a small group who refused to leave their cells for breakfast; the number grew as meal time passed. The prisoners protested against the jail fare.

Warden McNeil, confident he could handle the situation without extra guards, refused an offer of assistance from Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar.

The warden "estimated" that less than 50 of the prisoners took part in the strike, although one prisoner released from jail declared whole cell blocks refused to go to the dining rooms.

In the cell blocks where the hunger strike started the prisoners paced sullenly with no outward sign of disorder.

The meal menu yesterday included pea soup, weiners, stewed tomatoes and prison-baked bread.

There were no eyewitnesses. A widow and two small children survive. Hannigan was a lifelong resident of Titusville and well known.

Hatchet Slaying Trial Proceeds

Youth And Girl Accused Of Killing Mother Of Girl

BEER DRINKING PRECEDED CRIME

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 19.—Beer drinking in a tavern by Gladys MacKnight, 17, and her "puppy love" sweetheart, Donald Wightman, 19, preceded the hatchet slaying of the girl's mother, Mrs. Helen MacKnight, on July 31 last.

This beer drinking was expected to be delved into today at the trial of Gladys and Donald, who, in confessions read to the jury, admitted they jointly participated in the brutal murder, with Gladys wielding the hatchet while Donald held the mother.

In his confession Donald said he had four beers. In Glady's confession she said she had three beers.

Was Under Weather

When police asked Donald, former choir singer and high school athlete, why he didn't try to stop Gladys from beating her mother with the axe, he replied:

"I was slightly under the weather. It would have been no use."

The confessions of the "flaming youth" couple were remarkable for the callous admissions they contained. Gladys said:

"I struck her with the hatchet. I struck her again. She made a funny noise between a yell and a moan."

Joked About Killing

Donald admitted, according to his statement to police, that he and Gladys had "jokingly" talked about

U. S. Justified In Banning Air Race To France

(International News Service)

PARIS, May 19.—The United States was justified in banning the proposed New York-Paris trans-Atlantic air race, in the opinion of Clifford Harmon, president of the International League of Aviators, today.

"The race would be dangerous and opposed to the best interests of aviation," he said. "Such flights should be attempted only after the most careful preparation. Such a race would result surely in several tragedies and would be a drawback on serious efforts toward a regular trans-Atlantic service.

Judge Copeland Plans To Retire

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland county, has submitted his resignation to Gov. George H. Earle, the governor's office announced today.

The 64-year-old jurist, a veteran Democrat who sought his party's gubernatorial nomination in 1934 but lost to Governor Earle, was understood here to have been in poor health. His resignation reached the capitol in Governor Earle's absence and could not be immediately accepted.

Judge Copeland's retirement from the 10th judicial district bench comes in his 25th year as a jurist. He was first elected in 1911.

Trial Of Duquesne Officer For Murder Tour Of Last December

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—A graphic, dramatic account of the killing of his mother and father in the "door to door" murder tour of 73-year-old Patrolman Martin Sullivan which ended with five persons dead was given in criminal court here today by Joseph Benda, 33.

Sullivan, a queer-looking roly-poly figure, deprived of the wig, rouge and lipstick which he used to maintain a ludicrous youthfulness, sat smirking as Benda Rose in the witness box and cried out:

"He gave one to him and one to her and then he gave one to him and another to her!

Shot Father And Mother

As Benda swung his hand to his hip pocket, made the motion of pulling out a gun and pointed his hand, Prosecutor Chauncey Pruger broke the tense silence. He asked: "What do you mean by the words, 'giving one to him and one to her?'"

Benda crumpled in his seat. His voice became low. He explained:

"Sullivan shot my father first, then my mother, then fired another at my father and another at my mother. When he shot my mother the second time, she was lying on the floor."

Brother Tells Story

Then his brother, Julius, 23, told the same story over again in a frightened voice. He was followed by police officials who told of the arrest and arraignment of the effeminate Sullivan on a charge of debauching 10-year-old Antoinette

Rebels Marching Toward Bilbao

Report Town Of Munguia Blasted Into Mass Of Ashes And Debris

RESIDENTS FLED BEFORE ATTACK

(International News Service)

BILBAO, Spain, May 19.—In their steady march toward Bilbao today, Rebels blasted the town of Munguia, northeast of Bilbao, into a mass of ashes and debris, according to Loyalist reports.

Destruction of Munguia was described as "like Guernica"—a reference to the shattering of a neighboring city, allegedly by German-made and German-manned bombing planes.

Munguia, however, was on the direct line of the insurgent offensive and subject to bombardment, while Guernica was well within the Loyalist positions and an undefended "open" town.

More than 5000 Basques lived in Munguia before the war, but a large portion of them had fled to Bilbao under the guns of the insurrectos.

The Rebels have smashed forward along a 12-mile front through Amorebieta and Mungauia, but have not yet established contact at any point with the strongly-fortified inner defense ring, it was asserted here.

Twenty Guests From England To Attend Duke-Wally Wedding

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 19.—About 20 guests will make the trip from England to the Chateau de Cande in France to attend the wedding of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield June 3, Dudley Forwood, the Duke's equerry, told International News Service today.

"All will be personal friends of the couple," he said. "They will attend the wedding merely as friends not in any official capacity."

Forwood declined to reveal the names of those who will attend the wedding, but it is believed the guest list will include the names of Lord and Lady Brownlow—old friends of the Duke—Piers Legh, equerry to the former Prince of Wales since 1919, Walter T. Monckton, the Duke's attorney-general, Sir Godfrey Thomas, former private secretary to the Duke, Major Ulick Alexander, E. D. Macalfe and W. C. D. Greenacre.

Close Friends Of Duke

All of these, both as friends and in official capacities, were closely associated with the Duke while he was Britain's most popular figure.

All have visited the Duke since he left England, and it is believed Forwood personally delivered the invitations to the wedding to them.

Meanwhile, Ann Maritza, well known British astrologer writing in the London Daily Mirror, cast a shadow over the wedding plans by stating June 3 is a "bad date" for the marriage and that the Duke and Mrs. Warfield should have chosen June 4 for the ceremony.

Miss Maritza declared the "planetary aspects" of June 3 are "very mixed" and indicate considerable opposition and disappointment "not only from relatives, but from equally influential and powerful sources."

News of the announcement of the Duke's wedding was published on the front pages of London newspapers, but neither the London Gazette, official publication of the government, nor the court circular issued last night at Buckingham palace, mentioned it.

At 2:25 this morning they were summoned to the home of William M. Knox, of 431 Clen-More boulevard, when the baseboard behind a fireplace was found to be overheated. No fire resulted, however.

Speedy Trial For Mother In Girl Slaying

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 18.—Swift indictment and speedy trial were presaged today for Mrs. Helen Tiernan, widowed infanticide who calmly confessed slaying one small child and critically wounding another to make room in her three-room flat for the lover she now spurns.

Only a verdict of insanity by a sanity commission, it appeared, could intervene between the moon-faced seamstress and trial on a murder indictment. She has confessed enticing her children, seven-year-old Helen and Jimmy, aged five, to a picnic in suburban Long Island where Helen was slashed to death and Jimmy left to die.

It was the accusation of Jimmy —"Mommy hit Helen"—after his removal to a hospital that led to Mrs. Tiernan's arrest and her appalling admission that she sought, through wiping out her own children, to provide living quarters for George Christobulus, a restaurant worker.

More Justices May Retire Is Prediction Now

Washington Rumors Say Two More May Quit Before Next Fall

MUCH SPECULATION ON APPOINTMENT

Many Suggested As Likely To Be Named To Succeed Van Devanter

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Two more retirements, possibly three, from the supreme court during the June-to-October recess were confidently predicted in Washington today as the administration recovered from its surprise over the voluntary effacement of Justice Willis Van Devanter, as ardent an anti-new dealer as there has been on the bench.

Speculation concerning additional retirements centered about Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Associate Justices George Sutherland and Louis D. Brandeis. All are past 75, an age which Chief Justice Hughes once observed was a plausible figure for compulsory retirement. Brandeis is past 80.

Retirements Delayed.

It is considered unlikely, however, there will be any further retirements until the Roosevelt plan for enlargement of the court to 15 members is decided. In Justice Sutherland's case it was specifically stated there was "no foundation" for reports that he would retire. It was recalled, however, that a few months ago Justice Van Devanter's friends were making the same denials.

There are many curious reports circulating about the capital concerning the intentions of the remaining aging justices on the bench.

Large Sum Is Settled Upon Mrs. Warfield

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MONTS, France, May 19.—The Duke of Windsor settled a large sum on Mrs. Wallis Warfield in their marriage contract, it was understood today.

This essential document precludes claim by either party on the other in case of separation, it was stated on good authority, but Mrs. Warfield was well cared for in case they should be parted by law or death. Their property at the time of marriage will remain their individual possessions.

Windsor took these measures for the protection of his bride of a fortnight hence just as it was reliably indicated that powers in the English church and government successfully brought pressure on King George to keep his brothers away from the duke's wedding.

Social Security Decree Expected

Believe Van Devanter's Retirement Settles Attitude Of Court On Measure

DECISION MAY BE POSTPONED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Supreme court decisions upholding the administration's social security program were predicted by many court observers today in the wake of the retirement of Justice Van DeVanter.

Two cases, in which constitutionality of both the unemployment insurance and old-age annuity taxes of the Social Security Act are at stake, are expected to be decided by the court either on Monday or on June 2.

The forecasts were based largely on the belief that Justice Van Devanter would not join in decisions dooming the vast social security program after he had announced his retirement from the bench.

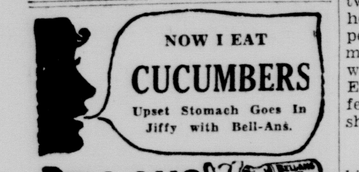

May Postpone Action

Postponement of action in the cases until next fall, in the event the court is closely divided, was a possibility.

The court was held virtually certain to split on the issues of unemployment insurance and old-age annuity taxes. During argument in the cases the "liberal justices" indicated by their questions that they believed the levies were constitutional.

The retirement of Justice Van Devanter was believed to remove all possibility that the court might declare the Alabama unemployment insurance law, the third social security case before the court, invalid. The court divided four-to-four on the issue of the New York unemployment insurance law, with Justice Van DeVanter presumably voting to hold the law invalid, but Justice Stone, a liberal, was absent. Even though a switch of one vote in the court should doom the Alabama act, observers predicted the justice to be named by President Roosevelt to succeed Van Devanter would take an opposite view, and the case could be revived next winter.

Justice Brandeis, oldest member of the court and a crusader for social legislation before he went on the high bench, was reported to be writing an opinion in one of the social security cases.

SON TELLS JURY HOW HIS PARENTS WERE SHOT DOWN

Vukelja, the arrest that snapped Sullivan's control and sent him on a murder rampage.

Little Antoinette was called and broke down and sobbed in the courtroom as she told the revolting story of her mistreatment. She had whispered it once before into the ear of Alderman C. D. King and now the ordeal of telling it out loud in court seemed too much for the frightened little child.

Attorney Edward Coll, named by the court to defend Sullivan, objected vigorously to the demonstrations made by the elder Benda who pointed an invisible gun with a quivering hand, but Judge J. Frank Graff overruled him.

Sullivan maintained his leering grin, oblivious to the outpouring of hate and threats he had witnessed on a tour of the route he took last December on his murder expedition. At the request of his attorney, Sullivan was taken along with the jury to visit the homes into which he poured his bullets.

PAGEANT FRIDAY AT WASHINGTON

Junior High Cast Makes Ready To Give "Ye Olde English May Day"

Scores of George Washington Junior-Senior high school students were going through final rehearsals today for the gala stage pageant, "Ye Olde English May Day," which is to be given in the Washington auditorium on Friday evening, May 21.

The pageant itself was written by the pupils of Washington under the direction of teachers. It will be one of the most colorful the school has ever seen.

The action of the pageant is based on a fanciful coincidence of circumstances that brings together William Shakespeare and Queen Elizabeth of England at Stratford about the year 1600. Shakespeare was then at the height of his career; Elizabeth had only three more years to live. It is known that the course of the royal progress about England in the spring often lay near Kemilworth in Warwichshire. The facts also reveal Shakespeare's return to his birthplace, about this time, to invest in Stratford real estate the earnings from his successful career in London.

For the pageant the Washington authors telescoped events and imagined a meeting such as this one between England's popular queen and her most popular playwright and poet. They suggest that had they met at Stratford on a May Day they would have been the traditional English celebration of the spring festival much in the manner it is shown.

Duke Completes Wedding Plans

Expect Ceremony To Be Performed By Mayor Of Monts

SPECIAL ACTION PREPARES WAY

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MONTS, France, May 19.—Life at the Chateau de Cande pursued its normal course today following yesterday's long-awaited announcement that the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield will be married June 3—with no member of Britain's royal family present to witness the ceremony.

According to best information available as plans were being made for the marriage, the ceremony will be performed by Mayor Mercier of Monts, who, aside from his official duties, is the town's physician.

Announcement of the wedding date was made by the Duke through Herman L. Rogers, American press liaison man for both him and Mrs. Warfield. It was the first time in history that the wedding announcement of a royal English duke had been issued by an American.

By an odd coincidence, the wedding announcement was greeted by a miniature flood on the grounds of the estate where the Duke and Mrs. Warfield are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux. One-sixth of the chateau grounds fronting the Indre river are under water as a result of incessant rains in the Touraine district for the past 15 days.

Special Dispensations

All necessary special dispensations regarding the marriage have been granted, as the result of an official conference in Tours. At this parley it was decided that during the brief wedding ceremony the chateau grounds will be considered British territory—and this was taken to indicate a second consular wedding also may be performed.

The conference was held at the Tours Palais de Justice. All final arrangements for the wedding were discussed. It was decided the wedding will be performed under French law.

The ceremony will be held in the library of the chateau. Normally, under French law, the mayor can officiate at marriages only at the town hall, but one of the special dispensations granted extended Mercier jurisdiction for this one day—June 3—at the Chateau de Cande. No religious ceremony is planned.

One of the most persistent is that Justice Van Devanter timed his retirement appropriately on the day the senate judiciary committee voted on the Roosevelt enlargement program with the plain intent of weakening the Roosevelt case. Two or more additional retirements as the senate debates the bill would be calculated to further weaken the support of the president's program.

Conjecture On Successor.

Meanwhile, there is widespread speculation concerning the appointment of Justice Van Devanter's successor. The names that are figuring most prominently in this speculation for the present are:

Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson (Texas) of the fifth circuit court.

Senator Robert F. Wagner (D) of New York, author of much New Deal legislation, including the national labor relations act.

Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, who has argued successfully a number of New Deal cases.

Judge William Denman (California) of the ninth circuit court, who favors the president's court plan.

Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed of Kentucky, who has also been successful in some New Deal cases before the high court.

James M. Landis, chairman of the securities and exchange commission.

Judge Samuel Rosenman of New York, long a close personal friend and adviser of the president.

Judge Ferdinand Pecora of New York ,who directed the sensational banking investigation for the senate a few years ago.

Judge Sam G. Bratton (New Mexico) of the ninth circuit court.

All save Judge Denman, who is 64, are on the sunny side of 60. Mr. Roosevelt said some months ago that he was disinclined to nominate for the federal bench men who were over 60.

Dispute On Wagner.

In the case of Senator Wagner, who is 59, there is some dispute between constitutional lawyers as to whether he is eligible. The constitution provides that no member of congress can be appointed to a federal office which has been created, "or the emoluments thereof increased" during his term. The retirement act of last March permitted justices to retire at full pay, which some constitutionalists argue, has the effect of increasing the emoluments of the office. Even though the base salaries of $20,000 a year (in the case of supreme court justices) were not raised.

It is a fine point, upon which the constitutional experts disagree, with the majority, however, believing that Wagner or any member of congress is eligible.

Should Wagner be apopinted to the vacancy it would solve a delicate political problem for the administration as well as insuring a liberal vote on the bench. Elevating Wagner would leave a senate vacancy which would pave the way for the possible appointment to the senate of Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York, an independent, his removal from the approaching mayoralty campaign in New York, and the possible return to the city government to Democratic control. LaGuardia has long aspired to the senate.

Roosevelt Unprepared.

The suddenness of Justice Van Devanter's retirement left President Roosevelt unprepared for any nomination to the vacancy. He said he has not been able yet to give the matter any consideration. Inasmuch, however, as Mr. Roosevelt asked for six additional justices 14 weeks ago—and expected to get them—the statement that he had given no consideration to possible appointments was accepted with a grain of salt.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, is expected to take his time about the new appointment. His court revision program is still resting on the hooks of uncertainty. Moreover, the court recesses on June 1 until October, so any nomination will fail to qualify until the bench resumes in October. Congress probably will be in session until August or September, so there will be plenty of time for confirmation before congress quits until January.

Breaks Conservative Bloc.

The retirement of Justice Van Devanter breaks the conservative bloc which has knocked down so many pillars of the New Deal. In the expectation that Mr. Roosevelt will name a "liberal" justice, the capital is confident that the supreme bench itself is to have a new deal, with Justice Owen J. Roberts no longer in a position to decree life or death for New Deal enactments as he has done in the past.

When Justice Van Devanter retires on June 2, it will leave but three of the four conservative horsemen on the bench—Justices Sutherland, Butler and McReynolds. The trend of the others is felt to be toward liberal construction of the constitution.

Why not let grammar school graduates wear cap and gown, too. The time to dress up is when you can really enjoy it.

SMITH'S

PRESIDENT'S COURT PROPOSAL APPEARS TO BE SIDETRACKED

to be enacted and then submitted to him for his consideration. It was privately said he would accept the Logan plan, in view of the retirement of at least one other justice.

Compromise Proposed

The Logan compromise was brief. It read:

"The supreme court of the United States shall consist of a chief justice and eight associate justices, two-thirds of whom shall constitute a quorum. The number of justices may be temporarily increased by the appointment of an additional justice for each justice who has passed the age of 75 years; but not more than one such additional justice shall be appointed in one calendar year."

Logan announced it had the approval of Democratic Leader Robinson of Arkansas. This led to the report that it was not objectionable to the President.

The compromise was rejected by the Senate judiciary committee along with the President's plan. In the balloting it won seven of the eight committee members who previously supported the President's plan. They voted for it in preference to the Roosevelt bill. This group included Senators Ashurst, chairman; Neely, Dieterich, McGill, Logan, Hughes and Norris. After the substitute was defeated all turned and voted for the presidential plan.

To Offer Plan

Logan announced he would offer the compromise in the Senate and predicted no other measure could be enacted into law. Logan said:

"I shall offer my plan to the Senate. It's about the only thing that has a chance of being enacted into law. The retirement of another justice or another liberal decision by the court, in my judgment, would greatly lessen the chances of enacting any legislation on this subject."

His attitude, shared by other leading Democrats, indicated administration leaders had little hope of enacting the President's bill. Their strategy seemed to favor passage of the compromise as an alternative for total defeat.

Chairman Ashurst, a vigorous supporter of the presidential plan for three months, explained his vote for the substitute in these words:

Ashurst Reduced

"It is a very close approach to the President's views. It had in it all he wanted. It was substantially the President's bill."

"Will you lead the fight for its enactment?"Ashurst was asked.

"No, Ive been dispossessed," the chairman replied. "I have been restored to the ranks. I had a dazzling career for a while and I did my best. I got what I asked for—a clean victory or a clean defeat. I got a clean defeat."

Opposition leaders, declaring all court changes would meet defeat, prepared to draft a report urging the Senate to kill the presidential plan. Senators King (D) of Utah, O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming, and McCarran (D) of Nevada, were to write it. Later a conference of opposition Democrats will be called to approve it before it is submitted to the Senate.

There was no sign when debate will begin upon the bill. Neither side appeared in a hurry to launch debate or to hasten a final vote.

OFFICERS OF RAINBOW HONORED AT PARTY

As a courtesy to her lovely corps of officers who will retire this evening from their respective duties, Miss Naomi Kennedy, worthy advisor of the New Castle Assembly No. 1, Order of Rainbow for Girls, proved a charming hostess Tuesday evening, when she entertained at home on Sheridan avenue.

An enjoyable program of games and contests claimed attention during the early hours, with novel prizes falling to Sally Jane Cleland, Georgia Ringer, Eleanor McFall, Glenna Goad, Margaret Braden, Roberta Cleal and Helen Allen, the latter a special guest. The door prize was captured by Marjorie Blim.

When refreshments were to be served, the girls found their array of rainbow colors being cleverly used throughout in all appointments.

Mrs. L. B. Round, mother advisor of the Order of Rainbow, and Miss Kennedy, poured. The table was especially inviting with an exquisite hand painted cover, and a center bouquet of orchid lillacs and red tulips. The hostess' mother, Mrs. Thomas Francis, and her sister, Mrs. N. A. Bothwell who resides in Beaver Falls, and their mother, Mrs. B. M. Prosser, were aides.

This evening, the Order of Rainbow Girls will hold their installation ceremonies in the East Lodge room of the Cathedral, at which members of the Eastern Star chapters, the Masonic order and friends of the girls, will witness. A large assemblage, of guests is anticipated.

EVENING ASSEMBLY FOR G. T. B. CLUB

The home of Mrs. Kenneth Boalick, East Lutton street, was the scene of an informal social Tuesday evening, having as guests the G. T. B. club members.

Games and conversation filled in the time, prizes going to Mrs. W. J. Baltes and Mrs. Aaron Boalick, the latter taking home three trophies. Lunch was served, the latter aiding the hostess. Orchid and white appointments predominated.

Mrs. Baltes, West North street, will entertain Wednesday, June 2.

ANNUAL BALL TO ATTRACT CROWD

Not too many people will be taken sick on Friday it is hoped today by the nurses of the Jameson-Shenango Valley alumni of the Jameson Memorial hospital. The "women in white" are all set for their annual ball and card party in the Castleton Hotel, and every nurse who is not on duty Friday night expects to be there.

It is the one night in the year when the girls would rather smell gardenias than ether, when their white uniform is changed to something with less material in it, and when a lap lunch replaces a semi-solid tray. In other wards, it is the nurses' night to make a little dignified whoopee.

Ticket sales showed an increase today, and by tomorrow night there should be a lot more sold. The party is a benefit, which means a dual satisfaction to the customers.

Friday night is the night. The nurses toss away their professional air and put on the garments of joy. It will be a swell party.

Mrs. George Smith To Entertain

Ladies Association members of the First U. P. church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at a 1 o'clock luncheon in the home of Mrs. George P. Smith, 507 Blaine street. She will have as co-hostesses Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. J. L. McConaghy and Mrs. M. R. Newberry.

PASTOR'S DAUGHTER WED AT PITTSBURGH

In the First Primitive Methodist church in Holmes street, Pittsburgh, Friday evening at 7:30, Eleanor Mary Tinker, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. Albert Tinker of New Castle, became the bride of Ernest Eccles Brayshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brayshaw of Stanton avenue, Pittsburgh.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the bride's father and she was given in marriage by her brother, James Bates Tinker.

The bridal costume was a white silk net gown over taffeta, and in her hair she wore a coronet of lilacs. She carried a colonial bouquet of white lilacs and iris.

Mrs. E. Archer Turner of New York, as her sister's matron of honor, wore peach colored marquisette and lace, with a belt of brown velvet and a small poke bonnet hat of brown horsehair braid, with brown velvet streamers. She carried a colonial bouquet of delphinium, pink roses and African daisies.

Alice M. Leonhard and Florence Carsairs, the bridesmaids, wore maize marquisette and lace, with brown belts and hats, and flowers just like the matron's.

Samuel Brayshaw acted as best man for his brother and ushering were Milton Bentley Tinker, William Parks and E. Archer Turner. The wedding music was played by John Parks, and Robert Bodycome sang.

After the ceremony there was a reception in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William J. Reseigh, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Brayshaw have gone for a trip to West Virginia.

CONTINENTAL CLUB GUESTS AT DINNER

A tea room downtown interested Continental club members Tuesday evening, they being entertained at a prettily appointed seven o'clock dinner by Miss Mollie Komarc and Mrs. Berkley Dillon, co-hostesses.

Cards were later enjoyed, the group motoring to the home of Mrs. Dillon on North Cedar street, with Verna Smith and Margaret McCreary winning the prizes. The former also received the galloping trophy.

Miss Dorothy Boughter was a special guest of the evening.

Tuesday, June 1, the club will meet in the home of Jeanne Bloomer, West Washington street, with Rae Otto associate hostess.

KENSINGTON MEETS AT MRS. HOOVER'S

Mrs. E. G. Hoover was a pleasing hostess Tuesday evening to the 1919 Kensington at her home on Winter avenue.

Bingo was the most popular pastime with the trophies presented to Mrs. Warren Starr, Mrs. J. A. McFall and Mrs. James Love. Lovely refreshments were served at the dining room table by the hostess and her daughter Eloise. Lilacs and tulips were used about the house in effective decorations.

In two weeks the next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Charles Covert, West Washington street.

Speakers Heard At Closing Sessions Of Federation

"Memory Book" of Lawrence County Federation of Women's clubs, filled with a solid season of successful meetings, added another outstanding event to their list, when they gathered in Highland U. P. church for their final assembly on Tuesday afternoon with president, Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, presiding.

A keen interest and marked enthusiasm was noted among the large attendance, from the time sessions were launched at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, until they were completed shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Two brilliant speakers, Miss Florence White, professor of Romance languages at Westminster College, featured the morning activities and Lieut. Donald Goldy, was guest speaker on the afternoon program.

Exceptionally fine and complete reports of the convention which was held at Philadelphia last week, were given by Mrs. H. L. Gormley and Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, delegates. The former related the first two days' meetings, telling about the various speakers. She spoke particularly of the play given, "Dear Brutus" by Sir James M. Barrie. It was directed by Mrs. Minehart, chairman of the Federation Drama of Philadelphia. Mrs. Gormley also told in detail, of the inspiring address given by Mrs. John M. Phillips of Pittsburgh, state president of the Federation, on the subject, "Fulfilling Our Contract."

Mrs. McCulloch continuing, accounted for the last two days of the convention, and stressed the address of James G. McDonald, a member of the editorial staff of the New York Times. His topic was "World Events".

Others heard were Miss Bess Howard and Verne McDonald. The latter dealt with a serious question of today "Juvenile Delinquency" and told how such is being successfully cared for in large cities, putting boys and girls "on their own."

The impressive tree planting ceremony, at which every state in the union was represented and the forms of entertainment provided by the Junior groups, concluded her resume of the convention. The next gathering of this nature, will take place in Pittsburgh, the coming spring.

The first guest speaker yesterday, Miss White, was introduced in the forenoon. She gave an exceedingly interesting talk on "Spain of Today" centering on the conditions of Spain at present, these having grown from the varied personalities of the people as well as the varied conditions of the country, which have been a heavy influence.

She explained that the people of Spain are spontaneous in nature, show distinct individualities in their lives in general, and a great lack of planning in their lives, giving interest only to their immediate districts, instead of following out the national idea.

Miss White pointed out the geographic aspects of the land, listing the many rich resources which belong to Spain, thus, the reason why England and Germany are showing such a great interest. In conclusion, she explained why Spain would be better off under the Loyalists government.

A short discussion ensued.

An election of officers was the next consideration, with Mrs. Frank R. Woods, parliamentarian for Sorosis, in charge. Those who will serve under the present leadership of Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, are: Mrs. L. R. Springer, first-vice; Mrs. Burr M. Rogers, second-vice; Mrs. Ralph S. Reed, secretary; Mrs. J. A. McNeill, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George W. Short, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Lindsey, parliamentarian.

Luncheon was enjoyed at 1 o'clock in the church dining room. Unit Two of the Naomi Circle of the church served the menu. During this procedure an entertaining and educational talking moving picture was shown under the direction of S. C. Shale of this city.

At 2:30 o'clock sessions were resumed. The Musical Choral group pleased with three selections, directed by Mrs. D. Duff Scott, with Mrs. Eliah Kaplan, accompanist. Taking part were: Mrs. W. A. Woodworth, Miss Lottie Nicklin, Mrs. W. P. Felch, Mrs. Vennor Bright, Mrs. Ben S. Agnew, Mrs. J. A. McNeill, Mrs. G. A. Cox, Mrs. Dudley Arnold, Mrs. Maurice Kelly, Mrs. Ernest Greiner and Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine.

The afternoon speaker, Lieut. Donald Goldy, gave an address on "Our Asiatic Frontier," covering many timely facts.

He told why he believes that if the United States gets into war, it will be Japan we will have to deal with, and followed with several reasons for the importance of proper fortification. Lieut. Goldy's solution was "to retain a large naval base in the Philippines, or withdraw."

A one-act play, "Taking a Day Off", was a humorous skit presented by a group of women of Highland U. P. church, their third appearance before local organizations, directed by Mrs. J. S. Martin. Those taking character parts were Mrs. A. C. Allen, Mrs. Ralph Kline, Mrs. J. S. Martin, Miss Ethel D. Moore, Mrs. Irvine Balph and Mrs. Leonard Kisthart.

At the luncheon, places were set for approximately 130, and at the afternoon meeting, 150 participated. Several special guests also shared, including Miss Jean Glenn of The News. New Wilmington, Wampum and Ellwood City were well represented at this concluding event.

Preceding, Mrs. W. A. Pond, chairman of the Conservation department, gave a report of the planting of dogwood trees in Gaston park. Local clubs purchasing trees for this project are the Art club, Current Events class, Council of Jewish Women, Daughters of 1812, The Reading Circle, Reading Circle '06, Wimodausis and the Woman's club.

These trees will be formally dedicated later in the summer, and more will be planted from time to time by clubs of the city.

"Hail Pennsylvania" was the opening song, and following the invocation by Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine, the group joined in singing one stanza of "America". Reports were given by Secretary Mrs. Ralph S. Reed and Treasurer Mrs. George Short. Mrs. Roy Long gave the auditors' report.

Mrs. Thomas Lindsey, parliamentarian, presented the first reading for the new resolution, changing the meetings of the Federation of November, February and May as they are now, to the third Tuesday of each of the following months: October, January and April. This resolution will be read again at the October meeting.

Hostess clubs for the day were the Reading Circle of '91, of which Mrs. C. H. Martin is president; the Woman's club of Wampum, with Mrs. J. D. Shellatree president, and the Thursday club of New Wilmington, headed by Mrs. E. H. Freeman.

Two new clubs, the Ellwood City Garden club and the Ellwood City Woman's club, were given welcomes into the Federation by Mrs. H. R. McCulloch.

HOSPITAL ENDOWMENT

NO finer thing has been done by the Woman's Club of this city than the foundation of an endowment fund for the Jameson Memorial Hospital, which was announced on Tuesday. By this generous gesture the women of the club have demonstrated their interest in the hospital is not merely an academic one but a very lively, active one.

In presenting the original check for the endowment fund, Mrs. Harry L. Gormley, president of the Woman's Club, explained that it was only small. There is no need for any apology for the size of the check, the merit of the presentation lies in the spirit back of it.

"Great oaks from little acorns grow," we were told in our old copy book. Just so do adequate endowment funds grow from small beginnings. The example of the Woman's Club is worthy of emulation by citizens and organizations.

No institution in the city and county serves the people better than does the Jameson Memorial Hospital. Like every other hospital, its scope of service is limited to the finances it can command. With an adequate endowment fund the hospital could reach farther horizons of service and at the same time be relieved of the ever threatening spectre of a deficit.

The example of the Woman's Club in founding an endowment is a glowing testimonial of the civic mindedness of the members of the organization. From the acorn planted on Monday night it is hoped that a mighty oak of endowment will grow.

DATABLE GOLD

An American expedition has been excavating in Mesopotamia. Digging down through 16 levels of successive civilizations, there have been uncovered articles made in the sixth millenium B. C. Among them are gold beads found in a pot secreted under a floor, described as a stone age cache of "the first gold hoarder." The experts also consider that this store is "the first datable gold"—the first evidence ever found that value had been placed on gold.

The last datable gold bears the imprint 1933. It is valued, at the moment, at $35 an ounce. Ours is buried in the ground near a fort in one of our southern states. An expedition from Baghdad will dig it up somewhere around 3,000 A. D.

WAGE-EARNERS AND TAXES

A new slant is given to the $105,000,000 in taxes paid by the steel industry last year when it is stated that this was equivalent to $169 for each employee on the companies' payrolls. The corresponding figure for 1935 was $134.

The Bell Telephone System in 1936 paid in taxes an amount equal to 12 per cent. of its $889,000,000 payroll. The year previous the amount was 10 per cent. and the payroll was $671,000,000.

Wage-earners who may pay no direct tax on their incomes may imagine that they are unaffected by the rapidly rising cost of government—Federal, State and local. All pay taxes and much of the burden rests upon those least able to bear it.

HALTING AIR "STUNT" FLIGHTS

The advance of aviation is currently illustrated in an unexpected way—by the fact that "stunt" flights across the Atlantic may be banned as too hazardous and useless.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson is considering the issuance of such a ban. He explains that while the daring, single-handed flight across the ocean was extremely useful in its day, its day is over now. Aviation no longer needs flyers who can take risks; it needs flyers who will prove that risks don't need to be taken.

The free lance flight over the ocean will always be more or less dangerous. Now it is up to the conservative, highly-organized commercial air lines to prove that regularly scheduled ocean flights need not be dangerous. The solo flyer has suffered the fate of all trail-blazers—and the trail he blazed no longer needs him.

DIFFICULT QUESTION TO ANSWER

A few days ago Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the most loyal supporters of the administration—even to the extent of supporting the President's plan for packing the Supreme Court—said:

"If this year, when business approaches the greatest boom in history, the government must, in addition to other grants to the States, appropriate $1,500,000,000 for work relief, how much will it be necessary to appropriate should there be a recession in business? And what would we use for money?"

Every citizen of this country might well consider this question.

If the administration at Washington continues to increase our indebtedness as it is done at the present time, and if the deficit in the Treasury continues to mount in good times, what will happen to the country if business should fall off within the next year or two?

When the World war was over the then administration at Washington began a drastic reduction of the debt which we had incurred during the national crises. During the ten years following the Armistice, our national indebtedness was reduced more than $10,000,000,000. We set to work as a government and as a nation to pay off our war debt.

Now, that the peace time crises are over, instead of following the same rule, we are continuing to add to our national debt.

As Senator Byrnes says, how are we to meet another crisis if it comes and what are we going to use for money?

The Peeping Tom of other days had nothing but his memories. Equipped with the modern candid camera, the fellow could have kept an album.

BOOK LIST FOR PARENTS

It has been some while since I suggested a list of books. If the following books are not in your public library, they probably will be added if enough persons ask for them. In some communities various organizations like the American Legion, Federation of Women's Clubs, and P. T. A.' have contributed library funds for the purchase of books for parents. Many churches are also establishing lending libraries for parents and not a few clubs are doing so.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

WHAT ELSE COULD WE DO?

I park my car on the street and go to a restaurant for dinner. . . . When I come out I find a gleaming, swanky job parked one foot in front of mine and a less pretentious one resting squarely against my rear bumper. . . . There they are and there we are.

First I try pushing the car behind me back a few feet, but he's in gear and his brakes are locked. Then I nudge the heavy car in front of me. But those brakes are locked, too. I'm locked in. . . . So first I honk and then I fume and then I fume some more and make a few choice remarks on the subject of inconsiderate human beings who do such things to perfect strangers. (Well, not Perfect strangers, but unoffending strangers). . . . Then I grow curious about the legal aspect of the situation and I talk to a police officer. He's profanely sympathetic, but he says there's nothing he can do. The police have no legal right to move such cars. Their owners haven't actually broken any laws; and there's nothing for me to do but wait.

It's half past six now. We're going to the theater at half past eight, and we intended to use the two hours for something else than sitting in a parked car on the street. . . . We'll wait a while. One of those drivers may be back soon. What'll I say to him when he does? How can I impress on him that he's put me to great inconvenience? Will he be a mildly apologetic gentleman, or a big and truculent chip-on-the-shoulder individual? Ten dollars to a peanut he'll be angry if I say a word to him, and I'll lose my temper, too. . . . So we sit and talk and read and look at the people and laugh at a couple of dogs playing on the sidewalk and after a while it's too late to go anywhere. . . . So we just wait and wait and lose much of our irritation and begin to laugh at ourselves and the things that happen to human beings and the funny sort of civilization it is, anyway, so conveniently complicated but so annoying whenever it gets out of order.

And finally we go to the theater and it's a good show with many fine laughs in it—and when it's over and we come back one of those rascals has driven away and we drive away, too, still somewhat annoyed, but what can we do about it?

DEAR MISS MARKEL—I am very tall and would like to make myself appear shorter. Can you give me any suggestions.—E. E.

Answer—My first word of advice to you is—do not slump your shoulders, thinking that you will in this manner decrease your height.

Stand erect, shoulders back, abdomen in, diaphram raised, head up—to your full height.

Tall women who stand on one foot and droop their shoulders look awkward and do not attain the effect of shortness.

To camouflage your height, wear moderate heels, even for dress occasions. Shun spike heels entirely. Wear hats with low crowns and by all means avoid those having dodads going up in the air.

A tunic dress or three-quarter coat, especially of the new box type, will decrease your apparent height and add to your apparent width. Do not wear the latter unless you are slender.

Short skirts (this season's length) will also take a few inches from your height.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

WE WERE going to write of financial scandals in high places, of manipulations in Wall Street, of stockholders coming out on the losing end when—

There was a knock on our door.

At knock on the door at night invariably means the entrance of a story.

No bell, merely a knock.

We answered.

A very young girl stood on the threshold—a girl none-too-well-to-do.

"I would like to do housework," she said.

"Come in," we said.

And the Lady of the House took charge.

* * *

THE GIRL'S STORY

"I'd like to do housework," the girl repeated. She stood awkward, embarrassed.

How old?

"Thirteen."

But . . . merely 13.

"Oh, I know how to work. I've worked for three years already—for a woman. I can do hard work; everything around the house."

Since you were 10?

"Oh, yes. I quit when my father thought he could find a job in another town. But now we're back again. Mother, too, works. There are six other children at home?"

Younger?

"Yes, all younger. Aunt takes care of them. Mother lets her stay with us for taking care of them."

How much do you get, when you work out?

"Two to two and a half dollars a week."

* * *

HOMESICK?

Would you be homesick if you could get a job in a nice home and could not go home except weekends?

"Oh, no. W-well—no. Honest, no."

Are you sure?

"Yes'm. I can do everything—wash dishes, make beds, scrub, iron—

But you are so young — so young. . . .

"No, m'm. I'm not young."

No—and that seemed the pity.

The Lady of the House will find a place for her.

* * *

WHAT A WORLD!

What kind of a world is this, anyway?

We discussed the matter with the Lady of the House after the girl had departed.

Child labor in the wealthiest country in the world.

Worse, the seeming necessity for child labor.

Maldistribution.

The children — the future generation—pay.

OMITTED

We were going to write of high jinks in Wall Street, but we haven't the heart tonight.

The headlines glide past our inner consciousness—"Hutton partners deny manipulation", "Empire State building deal costly to investment trust—Chatham Phenix Allied lost $4,425,000 in financing of building, inquiry hears", "$56,164,928 due RFC from five Van Sweringen railroads—Senator Wheeler calls chairman of C. & E. I. a 'dummy' for Cleveland financiers", "Van Sweringens held tax dodgers", etc.

We can think merely of the girl who knocked at our door tonight.

And of the scrubwoman who invested her savings in Van Sweringen holding company securities, and whose letter was read before Senator Wheeler's investigating committee.

It is quite an uneven world.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

LITERAL OBEDIENCE

From time immemorial, it has been the law of the printing office that a typesetter or a machine operator must follow copy "even though it takes him out of the window." Along the same line, there are many executives who become very angry if their employees do not follow their instructions literally. Editors insist that their orders be obeyed by reporters and so often do employers insist upon stenographers and typists recording their words as spoken and no criticisms.

Recently, an English cub reporter had been soundly reprimanded by his Editor for relating too many details in his stories. His Chief warned him to be brief, and he following instructions, turned in the following:

"A shooting affair occurred last night. Sir Dwight Hopeless, a guest at Lady Panmore's Ball, complained of feeling ill, took a highball, his hat, his coat, his departure, no notice of his friends, a taxi, a pistol from his pocket, and finally his life. Nice chap. Regrets, and all that sort of thing."

Another story is going the rounds, about the stenographer who, taking dictation, said to her boss:

"But I thought — — —"

"It's not your business to think," snapped the manager. "Just take down what I say, word for word, and keep your own ideas to yourself."

So that afternoon the following letter was brought to him to sign:

"Dear Mr. Browne—Write it with an 'e'. Pure swank—his father was a gardener. With regard to your letter, of whatever date it was, I can quote you the following prices. Hi! Thompson! It's that outsider Browne. How much shall we stick on? Twenty per cent? Make it 30? Righto. Thirty dollars a ton. Awaiting your estemmed order, I am, yours truly. That's settled him."

All of which reminds me of the railroad story of the wrecking crew boss who had been criticised by the superintendent for his lengthy reports concerning accidents and who wound up his career with the following: "Off again, on again, home again—Finnegan."

I'll tell you a tale of a wee little elf
Who lived in a tulip out there by himself,
And he fell in love with my Janet when she
Was just after two and not quite up to three.

One day as I worked in the garden about
When Janet had measles and couldn't come out,
This elf of the tulip approached me and said:
"Your daughter I ask your permission to wed.

"I love her!" "Hmm-hmm," I replied, "maybe so
But my Janet is still much too young for a beau.
She's still just a baby. She hasn't turned three,
Wait twenty years longer, and then we shall see."

This happened in springtime, just ten years ago,
But that elf tired of waiting for Janet to grow.
In a fit of despair he deserted the spot
And now none of us knows if he's living or not.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Would Sidetrack Next Depression

Another Period Of Financial Descendency Is Looked Forward To

SOME SAY IT CAN BE AVOIDED

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 19.—How will the United States meet its next depression?

One hears this question asked with surprising frequency in Washington's official circles.

Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland recently put it with extraordinary plainness. Another slump will be due in 1939 or 1940, he said. He quoted Chairman Mariner Eccles of the federal reserve board, former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and "all economists" as predicting it.

He agreed with them, too. "When it comes, as it must, what are we going to do? he asked.

* * *

AN EXCEPTION

To me it seems queer that no public man, with one exeception, inquires:

"How is another depression to be prevented?"

The exception is Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Wallace suggests the desirability of hitting upon some plan to end the alternation of booms and slumps.

Just what his scheme is does not seem clear to me.

Nevertheless, it appears to me to be a far brighter idea not to have depressions than to know how to struggle through them with as little distress as possible when they befall.

* * *

HENRY GEORGE DISCIPLE?

I suspect Secretary Wallace of being a disciple of Henry George, an economist of a generation ago, the Messiah of the "single tax" philosophy of that era—a philosophy which, if accepted in time probably WOULD have prevented subsequent booms and slumps.

If it had been accepted then I don't doubt that it would have done the business.

I am not so sure that the Henry Georgian plan (of taxation exclusively upon land values) could be adopted today without a revolution. Even yet the theory is correct, but conditions are different.

A start is harder, if not impossible. It is almost, if not quite, too late.

* * *

DIFFERENT IN '80's

In the 1880's and a little later there was, in America, plenty of free land. All the cash it took to pre-empt a sizable bit of it was a nominal filing fee.

Anyone who, in the east, was crowded out by the pressure of labor competition, could move westward and "take up" a farm. Not all industrial workers chose to do it, but enough of them did to relieve pressure to the eastward.

This outlet is closed now.

* * *

CAN IT BE CHANGED?

Even the original settlers are evicted by foreclosing eastern mortgages.

Or, if not actually evicted, they have become tenants—50 per cent of them or more in the richest farming regions, where tenantry was practically unknown 50 years ago.

Disregard of Henry George-ism is what caused that.

Well, Secretary Wallace would like to go back to first principles—start again.

It is a beautiful notion. But will it work?—now.

WHO IS CORRECT?

Secretary Wallace appears to think that it will.

Senator Tydings and others look for alternate booms and slumps forever.

It is a question. Can time be set back?

Melbourn Van Buskirk's pony is back on the family farm at Kincaid, Kas., but it took an eight-mile walk, a five dollar bill and some tears to bring it back. The 13-year-old lad's mother needed a work horse and traded the pony and some other stock for the heavier horse. Learning the pony was to be sold at auction in Blue Mound, Melbourn took five dollars of his own money and walked the eight miles to Blue Mound. When the bid went beyond $5 the lad began to cry. Spectators, who heard the story, told the sale operator. He dropped the bid back to $5 and sold the pony to Melbourn.

Officials of Pittsburgh, Allegheny county and the state are planning to visit Venango county and neighboring districts today to inspect lakes and streams which Mayor Scully proposes to make the source of a new $70,000,000 water system for the city of Pittsburgh. The system would take in a chain of small lakes, including Findley lake in New York state east of Erie; Lake Pleasant, west of Corry; Sugar Lake and Sandy Lake. They would be interconnected with other reservoirs and the water stored and filtered near Saxonburg, Butler county.

The odor of hot roasted peanuts and a circus menagerie was too much for "Young Jumbo", an unemployed New York elephant. Young Jumbo was with a WPA-sponsored carnival as the only elephant and when it shut down he was stored away in a garage. One day this week he turned up missing. Police caught him two blocks away but couldn't persuade him to turn back home. He pushed ahead, ignoring traffic lights and startled passersby. On he went and then suddenly stopped in front of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus which had moved from Manhattan to Brooklyn. The circus attendants made a plea and it was agreed that Young Jumbo be permitted to stay with his relatives until the show moves on.

It is hoped that as soon as possible, street department employes paint guard rails along Rural avenue. The job did not cost the city very much for material, according to City Engineer Glenn R. Throop. Ties were used as posts and the cable was secured for nothing, it was reported. The main cost was employes' labor.

The single ring ceremony was quietly and impressively solemnized by the Rev. A. T. Williams, pastor of Hoover Heights tabernacle. Only the immediate families and a few friends were present.

Mrs. Viola Harlan, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music. Attendants were Miss Doris Williams, bridesmaid, and Dale Hennon, best man.

The bride was costumed in a lovely aqua blue chiffon with harmonizing accessories and flowers, and her attendant wore a lace dress in Venus blue color, with blending accompaniments.

A wedding dinner was served at 6 o'clock with the nuptial motif prevailing in appointments. The bride and groom were the recipients of a collection of beautiful gifts.

The groom is a graduate of the local high school, class of 1934, and is employed at the New Castle Refractories Company. He and the new Mrs. Allison will reside for the present at her home.

MAHONINGTOWN CLUB IN SESSION

Resulting from continued interest and hearty co-operation on the part of the Mahoningtown Garden club, fifty children in the Seventh ward district, will cultivate gardens this spring and summer.

At the May club meeting Tuesday evening, in the home of Mrs. W. C. Patterson, on North Cedar street, the president Mrs. Richard Cooper reported that recently, she gave a talk on school gardens in the school, and the above number signified their intention of getting the "spring planting" done early and that they will put forth diligent efforts this summer to have a good showing in the fall.

A committee was appointed to inspect the children's plots of ground and stimulate their interest as time passes. This committee includes Mrs. W. H. Mauermann, Mrs. George Horchler, Mrs. George Cooper, Mrs. W. C. Patterson, Mrs. H. E. Alexander.

Mrs. H. E. Alexander reported the last Forum meeting and an other matter considered at the business session, was the annual dinner which was set for next Monday, May 24, at 6:30 in the evening, in a tearoom uptown. Mrs. W. H. Mauermann and Mrs. W. W. Wallace will complete arrangements.

The club voted to change the time of meetings during the summer, returning to afternoon sessions at one o'clock until next October.

In June, a picnic will be held at Oak Haven, the home of Mrs. R. M. Neill, near Koppel. The committee is composed of Mrs. D. S. Schnebly, Mrs. W. E. Horner, Mrs. C. E. Hulbert and Mrs. C H. Clark.

The program last night was under the direction of Mrs. R. M. Neill, Roll call was entitled "Songs of Spring", this being followed by an excellent paper by Mrs. C. E. Dungan on "Luther Burbank," his life work and accomplishments in the plant world.

Timely reminders were given by Mrs. Neill. Mrs. H. E. Alexander had the diversity number, and she presented Elizabeth Dickson who had appeared before the club previously. She was given a hearty welcome. Miss Dickson contributed two delightful readings, one of Edgar Guest's popular poems, "Home", and another entitled "The Young American" by Thomas Darling. An impromptu reading which was very humorous, was given by Mrs. Neill. It was "Sing, Katie, Sing".

To conclude the evening's entertainment, the group was invited to the dining room where an attractive lunch was served. Special guests were Mrs. W. C. Mechem, Mrs. Clarence A. Patterson and the hostess' sister, Mrs. Wilson.

It was significant of the season that the Patterson home was fairly abloom last night with quantities of gorgeous lilacs, the atmosphere being permeated with their perfume. Other spring flowers were here and there in the rooms, one especially lovely basket of varied tulips and narcissi being the gift of Mrs. Mechem, an ardent garden lover. Dogwood lent still other beauty.

Pair To Face Murder Charge At Lonoke, Ark.

Lester Brockelhurst And Bernice Felton Leave Albany For Arkansas

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., May 19.—Lester Brockelhurst, 23-year-old Bible student, and Bernice Felton, 18, who was with the confessed slayer of three men when they were arrested near Poughkeepsie, were to be taken by train to Lonoke, Ark., to face trial for first degree murder.

Given to Arkansas

After listening to the requests of authorities from Texas, Illinois and Arkansas that the alleged "thrill slayers" be extradited to their respective states, Governor Lehman decided to give Arkansas first extradition rights.

His decision followed an hour's conference with the representatives of three states, at which District Attorney John R. Swartz of Dutchess county was present. While the officials discussed their fate, the accused pair sat in an automobile outside the state capitol, carefully guarded.

Brockelhurst and the girl wanted to be returned to their home town, Rockford, Ill., where they were wanted for the murder of Albin J. Thelander. They also were wanted in Fort Worth, Tex., for the slaying of Jack Griffith.

Have Important Roles In Senior Play Thursday

Miss Woodring And Mr. Allshouse To Be Seen In Graduating Class Presentation

When "Skidding" is presented Thursday night, May 20, Betty Woodring and Dennis Allshouse will be seen in important roles. Betty and Dennis are among the 10 seniors who will portray the characters in this rollicking comedy which is being sponsored by the June graduating class.

Betty Woodring

Miss Woodring has been chosen to play Aunt Milly, Mrs. Hardy's sister. Aunt Milly is an unmarried school teacher. She has an unfailing sense of humor and great warmth of heart. It is Aunt Milly to whom the family turns when Mrs. Hardy deliberately absents herself from home for a short time. Aunt Milly remains the one unchanged fixture in the bewildered household.

This is Betty's first appearance on the high school stage. She is a member of the Leaders' and Etiquette clubs, the lunch room and the bulletin board squads, and on the art staff of the June Ne-Ca-Hi Annual. Betty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodring of 834 Almira avenue.

Dennis Allshouse as been cast as Wayne Trenton, Marion Hardy's would-be fiance. Wayne has very definite ideas about what qualities he desires in a wife, mainly, a domestic instinct. He is madly in love with Marion who yearns for a career. Of course, the two facts conflict slightly but the quarrels that ensue are at the kiss-and-make-up stage before their happiness is seriously threatened.

Dennis Allshouse

"Dennie" is an active member of Ne-Ca-Hi's music department, being student manager of both the band and the orchestra. He was entered in the state contests of 1935 and 1936 and the all-state orchestra at Mt. Lebanon this year. Although this is his first part in a dramatics class production, he had featured parts in the school operettas, "Lelawala" and "Tune In." Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Allshouse, of 510 Waldo street.

Uncertain Future For Farm Program

Deny Far-Reaching Measure Has Backing Of U. S. Administration

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The most far-reaching farm program ever considered by congress, as embraced in the proposed new AAA, faced an uncertain future today as flat denials were made that the program is an administration measure.

Doubt that congress can study all phases of the program in time to enact it in the present session was expressed by members of the house agriculture committee. The bill was presented the committee by representatives of a farm conference arranged by farm organizations.

While the measure, which includes benefit payments, an ever-normal granary plan, and control of production, is backed by the American farm bureau federation and some other farm organizations, neither the national grange nor the leading dairy organizations have yet endorsed it. Spokesmen for the farm conference moved to force a definite statement from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on this program and on the administration's program. President Edward O'Neal, of the American farm bureau federation, said Wallace will be asked to go before the house agriculture committee to state his position.

Loyalist Governmental Crisis In Spain Is Solved Today

(International News Service)

VALENCIA, May 19.—Loyalist Spain's governmental crisis was solved today with formation of a cabinet by Premier Juan Negrin, socialist and former finance minister, who succeeded in whipping together a "win-the-war" ministry.

The government represented a reduction from 19 to 9 members as a means of bringing about a less unwieldly group. Largo Caballero, who attempted to form a new government but gave up the task for lack of cooperation, promised to support Dr. Negrin.

The former Loyalist foreign minister, Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, is not included in the new government. He and Largo Caballero were regarded as mainstays of the Loyalist government since outbreak of Spain's civil war last summer.

Rural Triangle Ended By Death

Burns Sustained By George Gilbronson, 65, Prove Fatal In Unusual Case

(International News Service)

PUTNAM, Conn., May 19.—Death of George Gilbronson, 65, Tuesday, ended the rural eternal triangle which came to light when Gilbronson climbed into a haymow with a lighted lantern several weeks ago and was badly burned when the lantern overturned, firing the hay.

Routine investigation of the fire uncovered amazing circumstances. Gilbronson said he had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howe and paying court to the 24-year-old woman with her husband's knowledge and for financial considerations.

He claimed one of the Howe children as his.

When his money was gone he was banished to the haymow, he said, and took along the lantern to keep warm.

Acting on his information, the Howes were arrested, Howe was sentenced to one year in jail and Mrs. Howe went to the state farm for women.

Stamp Notes

This is the first time in the history of the United States that the reproduction of stamps in any form has been allowed. Many bills were introduced to congress before this booklet found its way to the press.

The long awaited news regarding the release of the government booklet of United States stamp descriptions has at last been released. According to word from the philatelic department this booklet, in addition to a written description of each stamp issued by this country carries a picture of each. They may be secured from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for the receipt of 25 cents.

Two years ago the Post Office Department was given instructions to prepare a new set of regular postage stamps. As these regulars have not yet been issued, there is plenty of reason to belteve that collectors can watch for a sudden announcement at any time regarding this new set. Many collectors will be caught unprepared when this announcement is made, as many will not have complete sets of the now regular issue stamps.

STUCK!

The agitated customer entered the drug store.

"A few days ago you sold me a plaster to help me to get rid of my lumbago," he said.

"That's right, sir," replied the druggist. "And what may I have the pleasure of doing for you now?"

"I want you to give me something to get rid of the plaster," the customer lamented.

"What makes you look so worried?"

"I just lost $5,000 in a crap game."

"Five thousand?"

"Yes, and the deuce of it is, $15 was cash."

Freedom For Armenia Asked

Former Cabinet Member Of Armenian Government Is Visitor In City

DOMINATION BY RUSSIANS TOLD

Hope of an Armenia, free from the yoke of any oppressor, are wrapped up in the dreams and ideals of a man who visited here briefly Monday and Tuesday, one Arshag Arshagouni, minister of agriculture during the brief period of Armenia independence, from May 28, 1918 until December 2, 1920.

Mr. Arshagouni addressed a meeting of his fellow countrymen residing in New Castle in the interests of the Armenian Revolutionary Federation, at the home of John Paul, on East Reynolds street, Monday evening. The night he spent at the home of S. H. Kaludjian, of 505 East Lutton street, and today he is in Meadville, where he is continuing his mission in behalf of the Federation.

History Of Armenia

In order to understand the plight of the people of Armenia, it is necessary to go back into history, before the birth of Christ, Mr. Arshagouni states. The Armenians then were a proud and strong nation, bowing their necks to no one. After the birth of Christ, they accepted the teachings of the Master and accepted too literally the admonition that if one is smitten on the right cheek, he should also turn the left.

Other nations took advantage of this attitude on the part of the Armenians and down through the ages they have been oppressed by other surrounding nations.

Then came the World War, and as an aftermath, Armenia took advantage of the Russian revolution to proclaim her freedom. She continued a free nation until the Reds were successful in defeating the White armies, after which the Soviets turned their attention to the domination of Armenia and her independence was short-lived.

Soviet Russia took possession of the country and forced her government upon the Armenian people. The land which was once Armenia, was split up. Only a small portion remains as Armenia. Six thousand square kilometers of land which is inhabited by 100,000 Armenians and 13,000 Georgians, was given to Georgia; 16,000 square kilometers which houses 170,000 Armenians and from 75,000 to 100,000 Arzebaijans was given to Arzebaija, while Turkey received a portion.

Here Short Time

Mr. Arshagouni has been in the United States for the past seven months, having come here from Beirut, Syria, whence he was forced to flee for his life in 1921, when the Bolsheviks took possession of his country and executed many of the Armenian leaders. Many who were taken prisoner and thrown into jail were killed during the night with the hatchet, murdered in the dark, Arshagouni states.

He is traveling through the United States, the guest of his fellow countrymen, preaching against Communism, which he says destroys rather than builds up, and arousing his countrymen to the support of Armenia's demands for freedom.

While the task seems almost hopeless at present, Mr. Arshagouni firmly believes that the time will come when Armenia will get back her freedom and have the privilege of living in peace.

It is interesting to know that Mr. Kaludjian, host to Mr. Arshagouni, while here, is a survivor of the seige of Musa Dagh, where the inhabitants of six Armenian villages were beseiged for 40 days by the Turks, finally being rescued by French warships after holding the enemy at bay in a heroic defense which is the subject of an interesting book.

The term revolution as used in connection with the Armenian Revolutionary Federation, should not be confused Mr. Arshagouni states. They do not like to associate the idea with bloodshed, but hope that the revolution which will free Armenia will be a peaceful one and will be accomplished by arbitration and diplomacy rather than warfare.

B. AND O. ENGINEER'S WIFE GREATLY HELPED BY VENDOL

Mahoningtown Lady Suffered Terribly From Gas In Stomach, Bloating, Acid Risings, Pains Across Back. Now Praises New Medicine For Wonderful Relief.

"I haven't felt as relieved in years as I do now, since I took Vendol, so I gladly give you my statement and recommend this medicine to others who suffer like I did."—Mrs. Henry John.

Another amazing instance of relief from long suffering came to light here a few days ago in a statement from Mrs. Henry John of 212 W. Cherry St., Mahoningtown, wife of the well known B. and O. Engineer who runs from Pittsburgh to Willard, Ohio. Both Mr. and Mrs. John are widely acquainted, so this report will be read with great interest. Vendol is the remarkable New Compound of Nature's roots and herbs combined with Alkalines which has recently created such a sensation here in New Castle and which is being introduced to crowds daily at the New Castle Drug Co. by the Vendol Man. Read what Mrs. John has to say about Vendol.

"I am so sincerely grateful to Vendol because of the wonderful relief it gave me that I gladly give you my public statement so that others in the same misery like I was, will know what to do to get relief also.

"I had been almost a constant sufferer for a long time from gas forming in my stomach after meals. This would not only happen after meals, but many times when I had not eaten anything for several hours. I would feel bloated and belch up nasty tasting, sour liquids containing bits of undigested food, then I would usually have splitting headaches. Oh! how I suffered! I would just feel sick and miserable all over as a result of this terrible sour, gassy condition in my stomach.

"I often had piercing pains across my back, felt dizzy, little spots floated before my eyes and my nerves were all quivery so I couldn't sleep.

"But I have found out that constipation was causing all this, because after I had been taking Vendol and got wonderful relief from this trouble, all the other things just seemed to pass away. I had tried other medicines but nothing ever helped like Vendol has and since taking this splendid remedy, I never feel a sign of gas, sourness or bloating, never have a dizzy spell and the backache has been entirely relieved. My nerves are a great deal quieter, so that I enjoy sound, restful sleep. Vendol is a fine medicine and I hope what I say will help many others who suffer like I did."

Vendol contains 12 of Nature's Roots and Herbs with valuable Alkalines, so it is like taking several medicines in one and accomplishes several things at the same time. It is a splendid laxative, mild diuretic to the kidneys and a wonderful appetizer. Many people write us they get such a grand cleansing and invigorating from Vendol they soon feel like different men and women.

Vendol is sold by all leadng druggists everywhere and the Vendol Man is daily at New Castle Drug Co., 31 E. Washington St., to explain all about this wonderful remedy, so come hear how it will help you. The New Castle Drug Co. at 24 N. Mill St. has Vendol at all times.

Successful Year Reported By Y. W.

Members At Annual Meeting Last Night Pleased By Progress Made

NINE DIRECTORS ELECTED TO BOARD

At their annual meeting Tuesday night the Young Women's Christian Association members had the happy privilege of viewing in retrospect a year which was beyond a doubt the most successful the association has ever had.

Not only has the program of this great organization reached a far greater number of girls than ever before, and the membership increased tremendously, but the financial condition has improved and the year was closed with a bank balance of $521.56, considerably more than the year before.

Although it was a rainy night there were about 200 women at the meeting last night. Considerable interest was shown in the election of the following new directors who will serve on the board for terms of three years each:

New Directors Chosen

Mrs. Robert E. Armstrong, Jr., Miss Nancy E. Bechtol, Mrs. Paul F. Butz, Mrs. William J. Caldwell, Mrs. Walter W. Duff, Mrs. Roy A. Long, Mrs. Glenn R. Throop and Miss Jane E. Young.

On the same ballot Mrs. Carl E. Crawford was elected to fill a vacancy for one year.

All of these women have been active in Y. W. C. A. and church work in New Castle.

A nominating committee of 1938 was elected also; two of the members, Mrs. O. P. Brown and Mrs. John Byers, are from the present board of directors and three, Mrs. DeLace Cole, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser and Miss Jeannette Hutton, were chosen from the general membership.

Retiring Directors Lauded

Mrs. Robert A. Eckles, president of the Y. W. C. A., who presided throughout the meeting, paid a tribute to Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. W. R. Hanna, Mrs. Ethel Moore, Miss Emily, Dr. Mildred Rogers and Mrs. Earl Ruby, retiring members of the board, who have served faithfully for six years or longer and because of a new ruling will not be elegible for re-election until after a lapse of one year.

Mrs. Eckles also spoke highly of Miss Eve Nicklin, who has been giving excellent assistance in the club work during the past year, and who is leaving next week for South America to teach in a school in Brazil. Miss Nicklin has helped the business and industrial girls' organizations, the Elm Street Branch, Italian Mothers club, and others, conducting classes in dramatics, handcraft, journalism and story telling.

It was Miss Nicklin who directed "Not a Man in the House," a play presented last night by the Italian Mothers club drama class and in which Mrs. J. Palumbo, Mrs. F. Delsignore, Mrs. I. Montozzi, Mrs. M. Champ and Mrs. A. Cascavella appeared. The two act comedy, given on the stage of the "Y" auditorium, was handled nicely and without mishap. Stage assistants were Mrs. K. Gillest and Mrs. G. Genovese.

The meeting was commenced at 8 o'clock with prayer by Mrs. D. L. Ferguson. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. John Byers and the report of the treasurer was made by Miss Nancy Bechtol.

Treasurer's Report

The fact that the bank balance for April 31, 1937 was $521.56 as compared to last year's $60 is due in part, it was stated, to the return of the Community Chest and to the splendid membership campaign results. The membership in the association is now 1,028 as compared to 929 last year.

Miss Bechtol's report showed that the balance on October 31, 1936, was $4.61, after all current expenses were paid. The expenditures from November 1, 1936, to April 31, 1937, totaled $7,980.98. The income totaled $8,502.54, including $3,690 from the Community Chest.

Special music during the evening included a whistling solo by Miss Louise Shaffer and a group of songs by the senior high school Girl Reserve chorus. In the absence of the director, Francis DeSanctus, the student director, Miss Dorothy Frey, took charge.

Announcement was made of the opening of Camp East Brook on the 28th of June. One hundred four girls have registered already and there are just 48 places left. The camp will be used by Y. W. C. A. groups from Titusville, Meadville and Oil City for a week prior to the opening of the regular season, it was said. The closing date is August 6. Miss Helen Cooper, of Edgewood, will be program director.

Discussions On Work

Discussions concerning recommendations made by the National Y. W. C. A. at the last convention occupied the remainder of the evening. These included Y. W. C. A. administration, discussed by Mrs. Mildred Porter; finance, Mrs. John Elliott; public affairs, Miss Anna Taylor; industrial girls' assembly, Miss Lillian Monsey, and business girls' assembly, Miss Harriet Phipps. They represented various organizations within the local association and told of studies they have made in co-operation with the national association.

Miss Miriam Clinefelter, assisted by the senior high school Girl Reserve chorus, conducted the closing service of worship, the same impressive service that was used at the Erie Y. W. C. A. conference.

A social hour followed in the parlors. Light refreshments were served. Two former presidents of the association, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser and Mrs. John E. Elliott, served the fruit punch. Mrs. W. R. Hanna, chairman, the membership committee, business, industrial and Girl Reserve club representatives, were the hostesses.

Tellers who made the election report were Misses Clara Bernine, Evelyn Bernine, Eleanor Smith, Dorothy Long, Eleanor Magill and Mrs. Fred Williams.

ENGINEERS GATHER TONIGHT

Tonight at 8, members of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley Engineers' society will gather in the Eintracht hall, Taylor street, to hear Louis J. Irrgang of the Lott Universal Roller Bearing company speak. A fish fry will follow.

TO LAY SUMMER PROGRAM

Summer activity plans of The Townsmen will be formulated at a business meeting of the organization at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7:30, President Dean M. Staley said today.

SWOC MODIFIES SOME DEMANDS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—Developments were swift today on the nation's steel front as rival unions massed their forces, each claiming victory in tomorrow's collective bargaining election of 30,000 Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation employes.

"A 9 to 1 victory for the CIO," confidently predicted officials of the steel workers organizing committee, while officials of two rival unions, outgrowths of the company's employee representative plans, now dissolved, claimed a "tremendous vote" in their favor.

"Yes" Or "No" Vote

Only the CIO-sponsored union, the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, will appear on the ballots, however, calling for a straight "yes" or "no" vote on whether the men want it to represent them as the sole collective bargaining agency. The result will be determined by a majority of the actual votes cast.

Other developments in steel included a flat defy hurled at the SWOC by officials of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Corp. and the Republic Steel Corp., accompanied by the threat to close their plants in case of strike and a modification of steel union's contract demands.

Prefer Showdown Now

Officials of the two independent steel concerns, employing 77,000 workers in six states, indicated they preferred "a showdown" now rather than wait until next February when the contracts with Carnegie-Illinois and other U. S. Steel Corp. subsidiaries expire. At that time, they felt, the steel union would ask for a closed shop and check-off of union dues.

"We will shut down and stay shut," said company officials, should a strike materialize, "until civil authorities clear the streets and make it possible for our men to return peacefully and without intimidation to work."

Modify Demands

The modification in the steel union's contract demands came as a surprise to steel quarters. Officials of the Crucible Steel Company of America, employing 18,000 men in four states, and Philip Murray, SWOC leader, following a three hour conference, announced the SWOC sought a contract similar to the one signed with Carnegie-Illinois.

The Carnegie contract gives the CIO union bargaining rights for its members only, whereas the Jones and Laughlin agreement, which settled the recent 36-hour strike there, would give the SWOC, should it win tomorrow's election, bargaining rights forall the company's 30,000 employes.

Murray refused to comment on the change in the union's tactics, although he had previously stated the SWOC would henceforth seek contracts which made the CIO union the sole bargaining agency for all employes.

"The conference will be continued," said Murray. "We are meeting again at 10:30 a. m., Monday. I have no further statement."

Thirty-Five In Bootleg Ring Are Guilty, Jury Says

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—Thirty-five of 39 defendants on trial in federal court on charges of operating a huge tax-evading bootleg rum ring were found guilty today by a jury which deliberated 12 hours.

The jury recommended leniency for Mrs. Gittle Sablowsky, whose telephone conversations as revealed at the trial by federal wire tappers, resulted in the suspicion of eight Pittsburgh policemen pending hearings before the police trial board. They were mentioned as receiving small bribes.

Government agents testified the ring operated on an extensive scale on a sort of chain store system with a central producing plant, regional warehouses, and neighborhood deliveries.

Plan For Dedication Of Collins' Memorial

STEPHEN COLLINS FOSTER

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 19. — Plans have been completed for dedication of the new Stephen Collins Foster Memorial on the campus of the University of Pittsburgh.

Its dedication will occur just short of 111 years after the birth in Pittsburgh, July 4, 1826, of the immortal composer of "Old Folks at Home" and "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming."

The Memorial, a small Gothic chapel designed by Charles Z. Klauder, whose world-famed Cathedral of Learning towers 42 stories above it, will serve as a living musical purpose as well as to remind Pittsburgh and America of their Stephen Foster heritage.

Its auditoum, with a seating capacity of 750 persons, will be the center of student musical activities on the University's campus, and will serve for many public recitals.

The Tuesday Musical Club of Pittsburgh, which raised the half million dollars for construction of the Memorial, will make its permanent home in the building.

Below the auditorium is a dining room for luncheons and dinners of music clubs. Adjoining the main building, connected by a cloistered passage, is a small shrine in which the priceless collection of the composer's manuscripts, personal belongings, and first editions, gathered by Josiah K. Lilly, of Indianapolis, will be exhibited.

The Tuesday Musical Club, cosponsors with the University of the Memorial, will open the program with an "open house" in the Memorial the afternoon of June 1.

The following afternoon a chorus of Pittsburgh school children will visit the Memorial and sing Foster melodies they learned in early childhood in this city proud to be the birthplace of the composer. Formal dedication of the building will take place on the evening of June 2.

General public inspection of the Memorial and of the Cathedral of Learning will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6.

The University will hold its sesquicentennial commencement exercises June 9.

SHEILA and the SAUSAGE

By Marian Phillips Johnson

Illustrated by SKRENDA

McClure Fiction

Sheila's knees became fluid beneath her. She sank into a chair and, gasp as she might, no words came.

"DO YOU suppose," inquired Molly Bell breathlessly, grey eyes round, "that something sort of—momentous—might happen to us on this vacation?"

Inette Hayden, blonde, lovely, and dreadfully superior, laughed mockingly. "Nothing momentous ever happens. You've been reading again," she accused plump little Molly.

"Well, suppose I have," defended Molly. "Exciting things do happen on vacations. Don't they, Sheila?"

"Something exciting had better happen!" agreed Sheila Wright, with a stubborn gleam in her beautiful brown eyes and an emphatic toss of coppery curls. "We're staking our entire savings on it."

Jim Sykes, the local chauffeur, brought his ramshackle car to a slithering halt. "Well, here we are. Holiday Lodge on Lake Silver," he called cheerfully, jumping out and beginning to unload luggage. "This here is John Martyn, your cousin's caretaker. And Mrs. Martyn," he added as a little old couple bustled to the door of the Lodge. "I'm taking them back on the next train," he explained, addressing all three girls, not certain just which might be Egbert Wright's cousin.

"Welcome to Holiday Lodge!" exclaimed John Martyn, apple-cheeked and iron-grey of hair, wheezing excitedly.

"Welcome," fluttered Mary Martyn, settling her bonnet straight on her motherly old head. "My land, John, don't forget the lunch box and the umbrella. And do hurry. We're like to miss the train!"

Sheila and Molly and Inette stood staring. The expensive rustic simplicity of Holiday Lodge was a bit overwhelming. Suddenly a splendid great Dane came bounding to meet them.

"Oh!" cried Sheila, "this must be Chief. Cousin Egbert wrote me about him."

"My land, yes," said John Martyn, struggling with the lunch box and the umbrella and two battered suitcases, "I want to tell you about Chief, now—"

"You'll have to step brisk," interposed Jim Sykes importantly. "That train won't wait."

The girls watched the old caretaker and his wife go bustling away.

As they entered the long living room the three girls gazed rapturously at the high beamed ceiling, the polished floor with its scattered hooked rugs, the great stone fireplace at the far end, the sturdy maple furniture and the many long windows hung cheerfully with chintz.

The following morning Sheila, in trim brown overalls and a flattering pongee blouse, was digging happily in Cousin Egbert's garden. The sun was warm, the September breeze cool. Sheila breathed deep, long breaths of sheer joy.

SUDDENLY two muffled "woofs" attracted her attention. Glancing sharply about, Sheila emitted a horrified gasp and scrambled hastily to her feet. Chief was digging busily in a neighboring flower garden! She dashed for his leash and scaled the intervening log fence in a flying leap—and landed ignominiously on her hands and knees in a flower bed.

"Say you!" called an irate masculine voice. "Get out of my gladiolus bed! What do you think—"

Sheila rose with dignity to her feet. "If you'll try to restrain your temper for a moment," she suggested icily, "I shall most certainly 'get'. I only came to take my dog out of your garden!"

The shouting young man in the grey sweater stopped waving his pipe at her and jammed it savagely between his teeth. He took two rapid puffs at the pipe and began waving and shouting again. "About that dog—" he began.

"Never mind about the dog," snapped Sheila, dusting off the knees of her overalls. "I'm taking him home at once. Come, Chief!" she commanded sternly. "Come, I say!" She gave a determined pull on the leash and turned regally in the direction of Holiday Lodge. But Chief gave an equally determined tug in the opposite direction. He decided it was all a game, and leaped joyfully, emitting great woofs and wows and wagging his great tail happily. Sheila, on the other end of the leash, was dragged behind him on the run.

The young man in the grey sweater stood and shouted with laughter. Sheila, with flying hair and flaming cheeks, hung desperately on. But Chief ran and leaped and barked, leaving Sheila bouncing like a toy balloon on the end of a string. She landed at last in a sitting position directly before the laughing young man.

"Where did you say you were taking him?" he inquired innocently, helping Sheila to her feet. "I think he's a bit rough for you," he added hastily, getting one look into Sheila's brown eyes. "Stop, Chief! Quiet, I say!" And the frolicking great dog stood suddenly docile beside them.

"Th-thank you," murmured Sheila with a shaky little grin. "He seems sort of to have ideas of his own, doesn't he?"

"I'll take him to the Lodge for you," offered the young man, laying a hand on Chief's collar. "Come on, old boy!"

Sheila cast an appraising glance at this amazing young man. She became aware of very blue eyes and a flashing white smile set in a becomingly bronzed skin. Rather unruly brown hair. Tall, with nice shoulders and—

"My name," he informed her, "is Jerry Quillen. Magazine illustrator by profession. And I honestly thought you were a kid digging fish worms when I yelled at you. You aren't very big, you know." He grinned down at her.

"I guess we'd better just forget it," decided Sheila. "Won't you come in?"

When Mr. Quillen left some time later, Sheila cast a satisfied glance to where Molly and Inette lay sunning themselves, entirely oblivious to her discovery.

THE FOLLOWING afternoon Sheila was making out a market list, aided and abetted by Molly and subjected to disparaging and cynical comment by Inette. There was much planning and arguing because, after all, the savings of one stenographer (Sheila) plus one college professor's daughter (Molly) plus one professional mannequin (Inette) didn't amount to a fortune to spend on a vacation. It took a great deal of figuring with Sheila's stub pencil to keep within their budget.

With the list at last completed Sheila backed Cousin Egbert's small car out of the garage and started off.

Upon arriving in Crestview she swung up to the curb and jumped from the car to be greeted joyfully by Chief, who apparently had occupied an accustomed place on the running board. Sheila eyed him distrustfully. She had learned upon very short acquaintance that where Chief appeared, sudden and untoward events were most likely to transpire.

"You stay right here," she admonished him, and went swinging away to do her shopping. She worked her way cannily down the list until all her purchases were made except the meat. Then she entered the Crestview Market and gave her order.

"Just a moment, Miss," said the butcher and disappeared at the rear of the shop, leaving Sheila alone. She sighed softly and waited. Suddenly she heard a shuffle near her and turned quickly to behold Chief with an entire imported summer sausage in his mouth!

"Ch-Chief!" gasped Sheila. Chief wagged his great tail in joyful recognition.

Computing swiftly, Sheila experienced a sudden chill. There wouldn't be anything like enough money in her purse to pay for imported salami! In a panic she grasped the sausage firmly in both hands and pulled. Chief set his teeth and clung stubbornly to his prize. Sheila's hat slid sidewise, her cheeks flamed, her breath came hard, but she was no match for the dog.

A door slammed and a step sounded at the rear of the shop heralding the butcher's return. Catching her breath sharply, Sheila released her hold on the sausage and prepared to run. But a shadow loomed beside her cutting off escape. Sheila leaned weakly against the counter and closed her eyes. She opened them just in time to see a capable masculine hand reach out and grasp the sausage firmly. Chief meekly unclamped his jaws—just as the butcher returned.

"Here you are, Miss," said the butcher, wrapping Sheila's purchase and shoving it across the counter. But Sheila wasn't watching the butcher. Her brown eyes were fixed unbelievingly on her benefactor, who proved to be none other than her debonair neighbor, Jerry Quillen.

He proffered the sausage with a grand flourish to the butcher. "I'll take this," he remarked. "That is," he added, turning politely to Sheila, "if you don't mind!" Pocketing the sausage, Jerry flipped some coins on the counter, grinned pleasantly and marched away.

SHEILA paid for her own purchase and managed somehow to inveigle Chief into accompanying her to the car. "You're getting to be a downright menace," she muttered, eyeing him belligerently. "You—you great oaf!" She shut the car door with a bang and started the motor with an ominous roar.

The next morning found Sheila walking sedately through the rustic gateway leading to her neighbor's domain. She was wearing a smart yellow linen frock and a sacrificial expression and clutched her slender white bag tightly beneath her arm. She tapped courageously on Jerry Quillen's iron-hinged door which opened immediately to frame Jerry, pipe in mouth.

"Greetings!" he cried, removing the pipe and flourishing it invitingly. "Would you care to enter my poor abode?"

His studio-living room was pleasantly suggestive of comfort and masculine ownership. It was really nice, thought Sheila, sinking into a chair. Suddenly her gaze halted in its inspection of the room—for there upon the mantel incongruously reposed—the sausage!

"That," remarked Jerry solemnly, "is Art. I'll wager you've seen all sorts of things used for mantel ornaments, but that this is the first time you have ever realized the decorative value of the sausage. I thought of it because I'm—"

"A little crazy," Sheila would have finished, if she'd been in her usual spirits. But she only moistened her lips with her little pink tongue, slid to the edge of her chair and remarked swiftly, "I came to pay for it. How—how much is the thing?" She struggled busily with the clasp of her purse.

"You envy me my Art," said Mr. Quillen sadly. "You begrudge me the expression of my genius."

"You didn't really want it," Sheila accused him. "You only bought it—"

"Oh, but I did," interrupted Mr. Quillen loftily. "I had a special use for it. A sort of bait," he explained cheerfully in answer to the question in Sheila's eyes.

"Oh!" said Sheila softly, and a little sigh escaped her. "I never knew fish liked sausage."

"But they do," vowed Jerry. "Especially these fish. I'll bet you never knew," he proclaimed, "that this has caused them to be known hereabouts as sausage-fish. And are they delicious? My girl, they taste like no fish you have ever eaten in all your life before!"

"Marvelous!" cried Sheila. "When do we eat?"

"I'll bring some over," promised Jerry. "Very soon."

And so Mr. Jerry Quillen in due time arrived at Holiday Lodge bearing sausage-fish properly scaled and cleaned, ready for the frying pan. Sheila presented him to the other girls and he was promptly invited to dinner.

The days that followed were like a nightmare. Chief developed a positive mania for running away to Jerry Quillen's property. Sheila scolded and petted and coaxed and threatened to no avail.

One evening she sat in the living room of the Lodge watching Inette monopolize Jerry. Inette sat at the piano in a gown of trailing lavender chiffon with tiny bands of gold upon it. Lavender and gold—the colors of Inette's eyes and hair! She played the piano and sang softly to Jerry and looked up at him with a provocative, possessive little smile.

SHEILA stirred in her chair—and winced. Every muscle in her body ached. That morning she had felt it her duty to help Jerry rebuild a flower bed in which Chief had decided to frolic. And in the afternoon she had arrived on the scene just in time to see the great dog galloping gayly off with Jerry's string of fish. Since no amount of shouting could recall him, Sheila had set grimly to work helping Jerry replace the catch. They had fished for two solid hours before the total had reached the number Chief had carried off.

Then Jerry had cleaned the fish and brought them over to Holiday Lodge for Sheila to cook. Molly had gone off with a crowd to a picnic and Inette had long ago assumed the role of gracious hostess when Jerry came to call. Sheila had, therefore, cooked and served the dinner and washed the dishes. She sat now in her little brown seersucker frock watching Jerry grin down at Inette—and smoldered.

It wasn't fair that Inette should go through the days looking so utterly calm, superior, and entirely lovely, while she, Sheila, had to do the work, assume all the responsibility and go shouting about after a great giant of a dog, getting tired, disheveled and—ridiculous!

"How about a little whirl?" inquired Jerry standing before her. Inette was getting dance music on the radio.

"No, thank you," refused Sheila wearily. "My back creaks and my knees refuse to bend. The enforced idleness of this vacation is killing me!" There was fire in the brown eyes that were lifted to Jerry's.

"Dance with me, then," invited the ever-present Inette. "I don't creak." Laughingly she walked into Jerry's arms and they danced away.

Sheila approached Chief the next morning with a determined glint in her brown eyes. "Listen, you," she addressed him, "I'm going to break you of running away if it's the last thing I ever do! The next time you run away you're going to get thrashed, do you understand?"

"Woof," replied Chief and pranced, lumberingly.

Sheila armed herself with a heavy switch and sat down quietly to wait, her young mouth drawn into a determined line. She leaned back against a tree trunk and after a while she dozed.

She was awakened by a soft low whistle from the direction of Jerry Quillen's property. The whistle was repeated. With a joyful leap Chief scaled the fence and galloped toward Jerry's front porch. The door opened miraculously and Chief disappeared within.

Immediately Sheila was up in swift pursuit. She didn't wait to go around by the gate. She climbed the low log fence and stalked stealthily to Jerry's studio window. She pressed her small face against the wire screen and looked. And her worst suspicions were confirmed. Mr. Jerry Quillen stood before the mantel and before Mr. Quillen stood Chief, quivering expectantly.

"What say?" inquired Jerry pleasantly.

"Woof!" replied Chief, jumping eagerly up and down on his large front paws.

JERRY took the remaining fourth of the sausage from the mantel and cut delicious morsels for the waiting dog. Chief sat up and rolled over.

"Good boy," said Jerry and patted him approvingly.

This was too much. "Bait!" muttered Sheila, and made it around the house in one minute flat. She rushed in without knocking and slammed the door behind her.

Jerry became suddenly aware of a small green-clad whirlwind with coppery curls and enormous angry eyes.

"So!" cried the whirlwind—and days of pent-up anger were released in a scathing flood—"so that's the sort of person you are, Jerry Quillen! You entice my dog to your premises with sausage and then stand and grin while I try to drag him home! Rave because he gets in your flower beds and steals your fish and have me worrying my entire vacation away, while you're whistling to him and feeding him fish bait. You knew I'd feel responsible because he was my dog and you just deliberately planned to annoy me! Well, let me tell you I've been humiliated for the last time. I've been mauled and dragged and thrown by that dog till I'm practically bruised to a pulp. But now I'm through. From now on you can protect your own property, and I hope he chews up all your flowers—as well as your imported sausage!"

She turned, gasping, toward the door. With one leap Jerry caught her and drew her back.

"Listen, lady," he said, "you've made one or two slight mistakes. I don't consider you're responsible for Chief because, you see," the blue eyes crinkled, "he happens to belong to me. I bought him from your Cousin Egbert the day before he left."

Sheila's knees became fluid beneath her. She sank into a chair and, gasp as she might, no words came.

"Wh-why didn't you tell me?" she demanded finally.

"When a lady is so certain of her ownership," remarked Jerry with a smile, "it's a little difficult to—disillusion her."

Sheila was thinking swiftly. "I'll bet that was what Mr. Martyn was trying to tell me just before he left," she recalled. "Only they were both so excited and Jim Sykes was waiting and —"

"Sheila," said Jerry solemnly, "do you realize that feeding Chief sausage was the only way I could get you to myself? And we did have some swell times, didn't we? Because you aren't afraid of getting your clothes rumpled or your hands soiled. You fish like a veteran and tend flowers like an angel, and your cooking is divine! I didn't like sharing you all the time with Molly and the Duchess so I managed as best I could. Forgive me?" he asked, looking deep into her eyes.

"I'm so glad to turn over the responsibility for that dog I'd forgive anybody anything," said Sheila fervently. And suddenly she grinned like a tired small boy into Jerry's eager face. "Maybe I can really begin to enjoy my vacation a little now," she remarked hopefully.

"You bet you can!" promised Jerry. "If you'll just place yourself in our care we'll make it all up to you—won't we, Chief, old boy?"

"Woof!" agreed Chief prancing up and down and wagging a devoted tail.

Society Turns To Radio Shows

Leave Opera Performance For First Seats At Radio Broadcasts

WHEN HOODOO HITS THEATERS

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 19.—The changing world! For years what New York calls "the carriage trade" drew up to the Metropolitan opera to debouch and take places in the famous Diamond Horse Shoe circle boxes or in other choice chairs. But today that is changed.

O. O. McIntyre

Fashionables still attend opera and first nights, of course, but the creme de la creme now make the broadcasts their various rendezvous. Especially those of Major Bowes and Rudy Vallee, where the first ten rows suggest pages from the Social Register and Who's Who.

The hours of the broadcasts are more amenable as a rule for dinner parties, and then their brevity lends to getting away for a night club or other festivities. Most choice seats for the more auspicious broadcasts have been reserved eight to ten weeks in advance.

Too, the broadcast is something rather new and different and there is always the off chance the celebrated visitors may be called upon to rise, take a bow and say a few words. There are now six large theatres given over to radio programs.

Not many free spectacles so captured the roaming New Yorker's fancy as the ice skaters who swirled this winter in the Rockefeller Plaza. To see the skaters twirl and dip to the tune of "Blue Danube" on this rink set down in a surround of skyscrapers is a gratuitious offering unlike anything the city has ever before beheld. I hear that it was an enormous success financially—as most things have turned out to be in an area once generally classed as "Manhattan's biggest building blunder." I stopped by to gawk several times, hoping to see Irving Brokaw, the famous society skater and later heard he has a private pond of his own in an exclusive Long Island reach.

A radio news broadcaster tells me the most stumbling word his guild has to hurdle is judiciary. So much so it has become a bugaboo in the studios. Another tough one is lingerie but it may be avoided. Once a broadcaster trips over a word he approaches it with trepidation ever after. Unless he avoids it entirely he is more than likely to muck it up. My choice for radio pronunciation is Howard Claney.

Co-incidentally, Louis Sobol recently told of a jinx that skittered through the theatres of the town one Saturday night. All the hoodoos took their toll back stage. In one theatre a player muffed his lines and botched the action; in another a star went up in his part and had to walk over to the prompter for a new start; in still another a delayed entrance spoiled the evening. And so it went in exactly 12 theatres, and in the 13th—mirabile dictu!—Death played a part. A leading lady expired between acts. Historians say this collective disruption has happened on more than one occasion.

I know of no hobby that seems so satisfying to its possessor as stamp collecting. Several philatelists among my friends—George Young of Los Angeles, for example —convince me of this. In one instance an actress wife tells me that her husband was quite a gadabout for two years after their marriage. She was interested in stamps and eventually interested him, and now most of their evenings are spent at home with magnifying glass, studying and arranging their collections. On their holidays they visit the stamp markets in other cities—there being about 500. I am told that the record high price for a stamp is $38,000 which Arthur Hind paid for the one-penny British Guiana. It is the only copy known and to own it is the heart's desire of every collector.

In my time I succumbed to two hobbies—each utterly ridiculous. The first was collecting canes—and walking sticks went out like the proverbial light. The next was shaving brushes. Everywhere I went I came away bearing a shaving brush as a souvenir. And now they say the electrical process of dry shaving is just around the corner. The most popular hobby of the moment is saving the backs of match packets from cafes, hotels and tea rooms over the world. The fad was reputedly started by Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

Sublime in sarcasm: It was one of those crowded traffic-hours and an empty taxi came cruising along 57th street, the coatless driver, badly in need of a shave, slumped down in his seat. Being without a fare the corner cop stopped him from turning into the avenue. "Straight across, mister," he called to the driver. And added: "Sorry, I don't know your first name!"

Deny Unrest In Liquor Stores

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—Reports that state liquor store clerks in five central Pennsylvania counties threatened to strike at a meeting held in Altoona Sunday were denied here today by Jules Ehrman, president of the Pennsylvania State Employes association.

"These employes did not threaten to strike," Ehrman said emphatically. "They met to consider the wage question and to endorse the position of the liquor employees throughout the state. Wages and tenure of position were the demands that we were making of Gov. George H. Earle. We would welcome another opportunity to meet with the governor and discuss the whole question again."

Pickets Peaceful Around Studios

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, May 19.—An ever decreasing army of pickets continued "peaceful parading" in front of studios and theatres here Tuesday in the Hollywood film strike.

Only seven of the original 10 craft members of the federated motion picture crafts remained on strike. Machinists, culinary workers and utility workers returned to work after signing separate agreements with producers.

For the most part they passed peacefully through the picket lines they had deserted. Only one case of violence was reported when four utility workers were cornered and beaten by 25 unidentified men.

Chicago Getting Ready For Battle

Start Selling Tickets For Embroglio Between Braddock And Louis

Great Undertaking, Foley And Jacobs Are Promoting Bout

By CHESTER YOULL
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, May 19.—Meek and gentle citizens who like to see ponderous ruffians cave in each other's beaks would do well to stay away from the Braddock-Louis tea party here June 22, if they suffer the slightest from waning eyesight.

With the match officially okeyed and apparently the United States supreme court the only remaining tribunal for Max Schmeling to appeal to, Promoter Joseph Foley and his corps of associates were busy today planning the seating set-up for the championship battle at Comiskey Park.

Provide Lots Of Seats

Top price will be $27.50 and on the blue prints in Foley's office it would appear that the promoters are doing everything in their power to provide a seat at this price for every loyal fan who can dig up the necessary bananas.

So far 20,000 of these high-priced points of vantage have been laid out and with the advance sale already running over $250,000 and the demand for tickets growing, there is no knowing when or where the cheaper priced seats will begin.

Great Undertaking

However, Mr. Foley and his associates feel that in putting on the fight they are encouraging a great civic undertaking, and so far not a single beef has been received from the better class of citizens, though a few growls may be heard among those who actively support the sport.

The whole point of this essay is: If your eyes are so bad you have to go through life peering at things through pieces of glass suspended from your ears, it might be wise to bring a telescope to the fight even if you have a ring-side seat.

The word "ring-side" at a heavyweight championship affair is relative, and in this sense the promoters have a practical, working knowledge of the doctrine that would make Professor Einstein look like a third-form boy with the stutters.

Jacobs Arrives

Mike Jacobs, the New York promoter who is associated with Foley in staging the fight, has arrived in town, so did Joe Gould, manager of Braddock.

With the fight little more than a month away, a tremendous lot of ballyhoo is in store for lovers of the manly art and don't be surprised if you are told any day that Louis and Braddock love birds and flowers and gladly strike down bullies who are unkind to their mothers.

Produce More Bass To Stock State Streams

Pennsylvania Bass Production Program Reaches New Height

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Pennsylvania's bass production program this year should attain a new peak insofar as number of fish produced for stocking waters throughout the Commonwealth is concerned, Commissioner of Fisheries C. A. French said today.

With the new bass producing project on Spring Creek near Bellefonte, Centre County, now nearing completion, production of these hard fighting game fish should be given added impetus, he explained.

Black bass of both species, smallmouthed and largemouthed, have attained popularity in recent years equal to that enjoyed by the state's cold water fighters, brook trout, brown trout and rainbow trout. The readiness with which they strike at plug, fly and spinner or live bait, minnow, stone catfish and helgramite, has been a contributing factor to this popularity.

CHURCH LEAGUE THURSDAY

The New Castle Church Golf League will go to the Castle Hills course for their matches this coming Thursday night, it was announced by President W. I. Clark.

The matches should get under way by 6 o'clock in order to get through before dark. The First Christians will battle the First Baptists. The First U. P. meets the Highland U. P. swingers. The Trinity team will battle the First M. E. golfers. The first Presbyterians meet the St. Mary's team and the Highland Men's class will meet the Mahoning churches.

The matches postponed at Sylvan Heights must be played off by a week from this coming Thursday night.

NEW CASTLE LEAGUE

Players in the New Castle Golf league braved a drizzle last evening to keep the schedule going. Reynolds, Summers and McCann jumping into first place when they drew the crippled Rieck-McJunkin team as their assignment.

Rieck-McJunkin will be replaced by the Colalucas next week, a team which promises to make the race interesting during the balance of the season. Carnegie-Illinois Steel has been replaced in the league by Cities Service, the players transferring intact.

Because of bad weather conditions, much of the scoring was nearer the 50 mark than the 40 mark. Emil Grommes was medalist with a 39. Gaione, Fenati, C. C. Headland, had 40's, and M. Evangelist, and Kelly Montgomery shot 41's.

Union Brewing and Melvins postponed their match until later in the week.

The results and standing follow: Shenango Pottery defeated Johnson Bronze, 3½ to 2½; New Castle News 3½, Blair Strip Steel 2½; Reynolds, Summers and McCann 5; Rieck-McJunkin 1; Cities Service 3½, Haney's 2½; Conn's 4, Pennsylvania R. R. 2; Hardware Merchants 5, Universal Sanitary Manufacturing 1.

Firemen Mound Ace Enters City League Hall Of Fame; Firemen Win 8-0

Gibson entered the City Baseball league hall of fame last night at the Ryantown field by pitching the West Side Firemen to a 8-to-0 victory over the Colored Elks and not allowing a hit or run in the six innings of the game.

Gibson in turning in his brilliant feat, fanned six of the Elks. The Firemen found the pitching of Garsides and Gray for nine bingles, with Reynolds having four hits and Ray Coulter a double.

The Firemen looked impressive as they won, going errorless. The Colored Elks had six errors chalked up against them.

Pirates Seek 18th Victory

Hopes To Upset Phillies Again Today And Keep League Lead

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—Seeking their 18th win of the season, the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates will meet Philadelphia this afternoon in the second game of the three-game series.

Led by Cy Blanton, who fanned eight of the Phillies and clinched his fourth win of the season, the Bucs trimmed the Quakers, 2 to 1.

The Phillies sent three hurlers to the mound—Hugh Mulcahy, who lasted one frame, Orville Jorgens and Claude Passeau.

The Bucs turned in two fast double plays and Manager Jimmy Wilson hit into both of them. One was engineered by Brubaker and the other by Handley.

Paul Waner was the only Bucco to garner more than one blow and Arnovich was the only Phil to get two.

All the scoring was done in the first frame. In the last half of the opening frame three Pirate swats and a pair of fielding errors gave the Bucs two runs.

Endeavor Is Welcomed Here

Britain's Yacht Cup Hope Arrives Here From England

(International News Service)

BOSTON, May 19. — Official greeter to Britain's latest America's cup hope, the coastguard patrol-boat Faunce contacted T. O. M. Sopwith's class J sloop Endeavour II and her Belgian fishing trawler Convoy, the John, shortly before noon Tuesday.

The "Rendezvous" took place 21 miles southeast of Point Judith Light off the Rhode Island coast. The Faunce immediately took over the job of escorting the racing vessel to a noisy welcome awaiting her at Newport, and thence up Narragansett Bay to the Herreshoff shipyard at Bristol. At Bristol, the Endeavour II will be fitted out for the Americas cup races at Newport in July.

Cutting official "red tape" to facilitate the passing of Endeavour II through customs, coastguard officials wired collector of customs Joseph J. Cunningham, of Providence, R. I., to extend every available assistance to the Britisher.

Immigration, customs and quarantine formalities will be performed under direction of Cunningham, after the Endeavour II and the John arrive at Bristol.

Board Of Trade And Pulaski Tie

Score Is 2-2 At Rosena Field; Gunnett And Badurik In Mound Battle

The South Side Board of Trade team and the K. Pulaski team fought a tie game 2-2 in seven innings last night at Rosena Field. This was a City League game, and was halted by darkness.

It was a pitchers battle from start to finish with Dory Gunnett on the knoll for the South Siders, being opposed by Steve Badurik. Gunnett gave up but three hits and whiffed ten men. Badurik while found for seven hits fanned 10 men also. Three errors hurt Gunnett's fine game. It was the second tie game for the Pulaskis in two league starts.

Fundoots and Marshall had the longest hits in the game. Manager Charles Scaglione was forced out of the game by a split finger.

Athletics And Pirates Keep League Lead

Pirates Trip Phillies 2 To 1, And Macks Defeat Tigers 7 To 5

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 19.—About the time you decide that the Yankees are out in front to stay in the American League race and that, therefore, the Philadelphia Athletics are headed for the cellar, where they seem to belong, Connie Mack rallies his green young men and begins making it tough all over again.

Coming to the point quickly, the Athletics still are leading the parade today, after going through a series with the Yankees and opening another set with the Detroit Tigers, who also are contenders.

The A's are imbued with so much youthful exuberance they are not whipped until the game is over, a case approximately typical being yesterday's series opener with the Tigers.

Going into the under side of the eighth inning, the A's trailed by 7 to 5, at which point Chubby Dean smacked out a home run with two on and the Tigers were beat by 8 to 7.

Athletics Ahead

That left the Athletics a half game in front of the Yanks who beat the Chicago White Sox 4 to 0, with the six-hit pitching of young Spurgeon Chandler, the latter being aided and abetted by Lou Gehrig's homer.

Cleveland's Indians kept pace in the third spot in the standings by turning back the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 4, while the Washington Senators nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 6.

In the two National League games, eastern clubs trying to do something about the west's domination ran head-on into difficulties.

The Pittsburgh Pirates clung to the top bar in the standings by turning back the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1, behind the pitching of Cy Blanton.

The Giants bowed before Lon Warneke and the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3, and with that dropped down into a tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers for third place.

Titan Netmen Top Allegheny

Even Up Series For Year At One Apiece; Wright And Grubb Continue To Win

MEADVILLE, Pa., May 19.—Titan netmen took a close match from Allegheny yesterday, 4-3, making it an even break for the season between the Gators and Titans.

Wright, junior netter from Bellevue, and Grubb, Youngstown, three-letter man for the Titans, continued their unbroken record of straight wins by taking singles and doubles matches for Westminster.

The summary: Maxwell, Westminster, lost to Wagman, Allegheny, 6-3, 6-8, 2-6; Brinko, Westminster, lost to Ingles, Allegheny, 5-7, 1-6; McGeoch, Westminster, won from Hanna, 6-2, 6-3; Grubb, Westminster, won from Taylor, Allegheny, 6-1, 6-4; and Wright defeated Jazko, Allegheny, 6-3, 6-1. In the doubles, Maxwell and Brinko, Westminster, lost to Wagman and Inglas, 5-7, 2-6; but Grubb and Kright, Westminster, took the deciding match from Thomas and Friedman, Allegheny, easily 6-1, 6-2.

Stock Market Tone Easier

Tuesday's Brisk Rally Affects Market After Opening Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 19.—The stock market developed easier tendencies today in the wake of Tuesday's brisk rally, which greeted set-backs to the administration's plans of enlarging the supreme court.

A few groups resisted the light influx of selling, including coppers, some rails and a few steels. Motors, utilities, oils and rubbers were among the weakest groups. Several individual 1937 lows were registered.

U. S. Steel dropped more than a point, although Bethlehem held around its previous close. Republic Steel also was under moderate pressure.

Chrysler slipped a point and General Motors a fraction. Northern Pacific and Illinois Central were improved in the carriers, but N. Y. Central, Atchison and Baltimore & Ohio moved behind minus signs. American Smelting and Kennecott were firm spots in coppers.

Columbia Gas and Commonwealth & Southern in the utilities, Manhattan Railway and B. M. T. in tractions, Woolworth and Standard Oil of California were among the stocks to reach new 1937 lows.

Bonds were mixed and quiet, with governments slightly easier. Grains and cotton were little changed.

Edinboro President Heard At Kiwanis-Wolves Dinner

President Carmon Ross of Edinboro State Teachers college declared here last night that "we as Americans too often fail to realize and appreciate the true significance of the three opening words of the preamble to the Constitution of the United States—those ringing words, "We the People."

Dr. Ross, speaking on "Americanism" before a joint banquet of the Kiwanis and Wolves clubs in the Elks club, challenged each and all to give more thought to the importance of those words and followed that up with a challenge to each and all "to be useful citizens".

More than 80 members of the Kiwanis and Wolves organizations heard President Ross deliver a practical message on "the ideal American", and enjoyed other features of the dinner program arranged and sponsored by the public affairs committee of Kiwanis.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath was the evening's toastmaster.

Potter Presents Toastmaster

Presented to the audience by Orville Potter, chairman of Kiwanis' public affairs group, Mayor McGrath, himself a Kiwanian, voiced praise for the "spirit of friendship" which motivated the joint dinner. It was the first time Kiwanis had met with the Wolves—and when it was over last night it appeared there'll be more affairs like it in the future.

The mayor presented the various speakers.

Heard first was President Carmin Sacco of the Wolves, who voiced his organization's appreciation in having the Kiwanians present for their meeting. For the Wolves it was a regular bi-monthly meeting.

After Mr. Sacco finished, Angelo J. Casacchia was introduced as a leader of the Wolves and gave the audience an insight into the community service which his organization renders. He said a "union of this kind is necessary" and heralded the coming of "a greater New Castle."

President Thomas L. Paden of Kiwanis was introduced next. "This gives us a better opportunity to know each other—we who live and work together—and I think it's fine that we get together," he said, adding his congratulations to the Wolves for "your excellent community work."

Mayor McGrath called attention to the fact that this is National Life Insurance Week and, after paying tribute to it as an institution, introduced William J. Stafford, a Kiwanian and president of the New Castle branch of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters association, for appropriate remarks.

Dr. Ross Is Introduced

President Ross was introduced next. The mayor told the audience that he was one-time president of the Doylestown, Pa. Kiwanis club and a former lieutenant governor of his Kiwanis district. He is now a member of Erie Kiwanis.

At the close of his address, the group eased back again to enjoy the antics of a local foursome which entertained with songs, and recitations and other humorous acts. Rex Patch, L. A. Pearsall, Reed D. McCullough and Arch Cubbison, costumed for the occasion, were the merrymakers.

Pep singing at the dinner was led by Chester P. Reynolds of Kiwanis. Presiding over the ivories was John O. Huston, popular pianist. An octette made up during the dinner sang several numbers.

Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Harold A. McCurdy, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church, a member of Kiwanis.

Serving with Mr. Potter on Kiwanis' public affairs committee are Dr. John Foster, W. A. Francis and Mr. McGrath.

Some Delay In Union Drive Against Ford

Difficulty Met In Effort To Secure Offices In Dearborn, Is Report

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1937)

DETROIT, May 19.—The CIO's Dearborn offensive against Henry Ford was being temporarily blocked today because the United Automobile Workers Union was unable to rent two offices in Dearborn.

Landlords in the suburb where Ford's main plant is located have refused so far to rent to the union, it was learned. Union leaders blamed Ford's outspoken criticism of the union for their difficulty.

The union's office hunting problem was the real reason behind delay of the start of the open drive to organize Ford workers. Originally it had been planned to launch the drive early this week but the time has been put off from day to day.

The U.A.W. revealed it hoped to sign a lease for offices soon. However, the opening of the drive already has been set back three days. Meantime, the U.A.W. planned to distribute "unionism" handbills to Ford workers in Dearborn in reply to the "Fordism" cards passed out by the company Monday.
